To Infinity And Beyond
3-2-1, Blast off! The Highland High School Journalism staff has officially launched a finished product. You are about to enter our version of outer space. Hold on tight for the journey of a lifetime and an atmosphere full of memories.

The students in the small town of Highland, KS are always ready and waiting for any unusual or exciting events. One of the greatest sights to see on a clear night in space was Hale-Bopp, the visible comet to the north. Not only did scientists explore the comet, but so did the students. There was much talk of the mother ship and followers of Marshall Herff Applewhite.

Many students could not believe the events that were going on around them. Some laughed, joked, and made fun of the followers of Applewhite. “I personally thought they were psycho and that maybe killing themselves was a good idea. It got rid of 39 more crazy people in this world,” said Kristi Kelley, senior.

Although the majority of students found it to be some sort of psychotic craze, others thought the whole idea of taking a ride on the mother ship would be kind of fun. “I think what they did was great. I am just waiting for the next joy ride to come my way,” said Chris Blevins, senior, with just a hint of sarcasm.

When the yearbook theme was decided, the mass suicide of Applewhite and 38 others was not yet a realistic nightmare of the times.

“To Infinity and Beyond” is a theme that describes the lifestyles of many. With extracurricular activities, academic responsibilities, and other club involvement, the students did nothing less than travel to the ends of the earth in search of fun and educational opportunities.

The thought of jumping on a comet and taking a ride was often considered after riding for many hours on a bus to any and every knowledge-expanding opportunity available. Trips were taken to Manhattan, KS; Omaha, NE; and Osage Beach, MO. Some of the seniors even explored as far south as Texas, where they learned what the outer limits of the galaxy really had in store when they visited the NASA Space Center in Houston.

The grand finale was graduation, in which the 1997 seniors were successfully launched into “infinity and beyond!”

The faculty and staff along with the entire administration were like huge planets in the solar system. They gave the students the knowledge needed to go on further with their education and even their lives once they have graduated. All the students and the teachers combined to form a large (family-like) galaxy of stars and planets along with a few asteroids and comets that come and go as the year goes by.

All the students and staff came together for an extensive time to add to their knowledge and experience during school activities.

This past year has been a very glorious one for the administration. This year has brought change and improvement to U.S.D. 425. The greatest accomplishment for the administration was the paying off of the school building.

This was followed by a large Open House and Bond Burning ceremony. The event was a total success. Many people attended the event, including many previous teachers, administrators, and school board members. Jan Collins, superintendent, stated, "The Open House was a success because it involved a lot of people. The Open House gave everyone an opportunity to view the past, present, and future of the school district."

Cheryl Rasmussen, principal, stated, "I feel this year has been very successful because we have had few disciplinary problems, and for the most part, all of our students come here every day to learn."

Another of the new additions to help the students was the incorporating of a Senior Project, and the replacement of parent teacher conference with conferences led by the student. These new conferences were put into effect to help students assess their accomplishments. This new program also helps students to explain what they have, or have not, been doing.

The Senior Project program was installed to help graduating seniors learn how to present a project to a group. The seniors were able to pick their own topics, and developed a project from the beginning to the end. Hopefully these projects will help seniors as they further their education and start a career.

Memorable Moments

Eric Tracy: "My most memorable moment was when we [the beginning ag class] got to shave Mr. Schmitz's head because we won at the Greenhand Conference."

Stacy Neibling: "I remember the National FFA Convention the best."

Megan Blevins: "My most memorable moment from this year is being named the smoking and fighting class."

Sophomores’ Most Memorable Moments...

Natalie Webb: The day Travis Clary had a headache, and Kari Garrett gave him Tylenol, but we told T. J. we gave him Midol, and she believed us because he acted like he was sick the whole day.

Jerod Blanton: At the ole’ ski trip some Scottish lady ran over ole’ Natalie Webb, and she runs down the hill calling her an “Azweep”!

Evan Dillman: On the ski trip, T.J. Simpson ran into the men’s restroom.

Travis Clary & Josh Keebler: It was the year to cause an uproar from animal rights activists. First, there was the chicken on Shelton’s jeep, that ended up on Stephen Blevins’s blazer; then there was a duck in Jerod’s engine; and last a little mouse hung from Jerod’s rearview mirror with bailing wire.

Fred Green: Jerod’s feet were tired after the ski trip, so we put his shoes and socks on Evan Dillman’s nose while he slept, and he never noticed.

The senior class had superb meteors with all of their atoms burning with a magnificent glow.

"I had a lot of fun bonding with friends, and the year went quick," said Mandy Brock. "I'll miss my friends, but I'm prepared for college."

Chris Blevins said, "Feelings of the senior year came in three stages: (1) I can't wait to get out of this joint, (2) School's not all that bad, and (3) Please let me flunk and stay here one more year. I'll miss high school."

Although each of the graduates had differing plans for after high school, all were prepared to blast into the future.

On May 18, the seniors took off for their annual Senior Sneak and headed for the beach in the Lake of The Ozarks. The seniors stayed at the Alhoon Resort where they were greeted with a large bowl of spaghetti for dinner. The resort was right on the edge of the lake and offered an indoor and outdoor swimming pool, a dry sauna, and two hot tubs for everyone to relax in. Also the Alhoon resort offered a speed boat for skiing and a pontoon for fishing and relaxing in the sun. The seniors had lots of fun in town where they were able to play video games and even hit a few baseballs in the batting cages.

On Monday they made the drive back into town for some shopping at the local shopping center for some souvenirs and other items. Next was an afternoon of fun rides at Big Shots where they could drive go carts, super collider cars and bumper boats; most of the seniors were soaked by the bumper boats. They also had time to stop at another local park for a short game of miniature golf and some more rides on bumper cars. Later on they enjoyed a delightful seafood meal at the Happy Fisherman restaurant and were stuffed by the large deserts offered. That evening they had a group picture taken in western style at the Old Tyme Photo in Bagnell Dam. The seniors also ordered a few T-shirts to be made for the ending of their senior year and the visit to the Lake of The Ozarks.

Tuesday was a day all the seniors will remember when they spent the entire day on the lake for skiing, fishing, jet skiing, swimming and just relaxing in the sun. It was a little cold but not even the weather could stop them from having some fun and getting a few rays of sunshine which burned neck and shoulders. That evening after a good home cooked meal of steaks on the grill, they had the opportunity to enjoy some singing and dancing, along with a little comedy thrown in, at Lee Mace’s Ozark Opry.

On Wednesday after a large breakfast of biscuits and gravy, they headed back to Highland.

Other than the basic studies, the physics students took a trip to NASA Space Center in Houston, TX. "The control center was really neat to see because that is where all of the missions in space are run from," said Kristi Kelley, senior.

Gary Keehn taught most of the science classes. General science class introduced the freshmen to the rivers and streams team. They also did an anatomy, recycling and physical science unit.

Holly Gray, freshman, said, “I enjoy hands on activities like going to the river. It is a lot more interesting to test with real river water instead of tap water.”

The biology students did more field ID than in year’s past, and they were involved in many dissections. This was a comparative anatomy class, as they compare the anatomy of other animals to their own bodies.

Travis Clary, sophomore, said, “Sophomore biology enabled me to learn more about the physical make up of organisms and my own body. The funniest thing we studied this year was the inhabitants of West Texas swamp grass.”

Jan Collins, superintendent, helped with chemistry. He did most of the lecturing; Keehn’s main focus was the labs. Chris Collins said, “Chemistry was the hardest class I have faced during my young life. I failed miserably. My only disappointment was failing to see Doc Collins’ infamous lab coat.”

College biology was a dual credit course with Highland Community College. This was a harder biology course that also encompassed leadership activities. “Mr.” Bob Hopkins, senior, said, “What is college biology? Oh yeah, it was the most intriguing of anatomy/lower zoology experiences I have ever encountered in my young, male adult life.”

The social science, English, and Spanish classes this year did everything from putting Joyce Rush in a mock trial to taking a field trip to Paseo High School in Kansas City.

Learning about leaders and their acts of the past in history, learning grammar and literature in English, and conjugating Spanish verbs were all accomplished this year.

In order to graduate, students must take four units of English, including English I, English II/world literature, English III/American literature, and English IV or college English.

History requirements include three units of social science, including one unit of American history, world history, and one unit of American government (Constitution).

Spanish and geography aren't required to graduate, but many students took them to help get into their desired college or start planning for their future career.

Some of the teachers tried new things in their classes this year. "I tried new strategies all the time. For instance, I integrated a magazine from Mexico," said Toni Larson, Spanish teacher.

Donna Parish said, "In American history, the state assessment project took so much longer because of the big class that we've had to rush through the 20th century. I hope the class of '98 will know what the Cold War was!"

For next year, Larson said, "I want to find out ahead of time [about] cultural activities which we could attend in this region."

Next year, though, Joyce Rush, English teacher, will be retired. "It will be difficult for me to stay away," she said.

Ted Hutchcraft, the crafty veteran, began another year of excitement in the wonderful world of mathematics. Hutchcraft once again has a time consuming schedule as he teaches all offered arithmetic courses. Classes include Algebra I and II, calculus, GTA, and physics. Marla Olson, an aspiring teacher, helps with Algebra II and half of Algebra I.

Hutchcraft became involved in the Northeast Kansas Consortium, a newly devised organization that is attempting to apply various courses to the working world. Hutchcraft was challenged with placing a student in a local business and getting this person to see the importance of math.

Hutchcraft noted that teacher/student relations have become more difficult due to the advancements young persons are accustomed to. “Students are taking courses like Algebra I their freshman year instead of their junior year like their parents may have done,” said Mr. Hutchcraft.

The computer department made a giant leap this year under the direction of Jill Liesemeyer, who said, “My second year has actually been harder since I have become more involved.” Liesemeyer teaches junior high keyboarding, accounting (new this year), sophomore computers, and newly devised computer productions. Accounting replaced business math to provide a more advanced and computer related finance class.

Computer productions took on the task of making athletic programs, bulletins, and the school newsletter as an attempt to apply computer technology to work related areas. The results have been very positive. The newsletter is organized and much more reader friendly. Rocky Ruhnke, junior, noted, “The newsletter was a rather large hassle. It involved lots of after school hours. The constructive side was that we were graded on effort, not tests.” Liesemeyer is also the assistant coach for junior high girls’ volleyball and basketball.

Ted Hutchcraft, in his 36th year of teaching, strikes a pose as he enthusiastically explains another fun-filled lesson to the freshmen.

Jill Liesemeyer, in her sophomore year as computer teacher, rolls up her sleeves to keep students in line.

Elmer Schmitz, agriculture instructor and FFA advisor, has involved all the agriculture classes in building a greenhouse. The students have helped by digging for the foundation and welding for the frame.

Schmitz said, “The greenhouse is going to give us more opportunity to do more plant and crop science. Students will be able to use the greenhouse as part of their SAE (Supervised Agriculture Experience) for growing plants.”

New shop tools, a metal band saw, and a plasma cutter have made working in ag mechanics more efficient.

“The new machinery makes it easier to be more precise in making our ag projects,” said Brad McCauley, senior.

Laura Schmitz, the home economics teacher, taught the students to cook, sew, and be a mother. Being a mother was part of a new lesson brought to the home economics department. The experiment is a life size baby that monitors in the interlining. How the mother takes care of it during his or her scheduled time is monitored and graded. The baby comes with a key to shut off the crying.

Schmitz said, “Baby Think It Over has benefited the students because they have realized that taking care of a baby is very demanding. The baby can be very inconvenient, and many students have lost sleep over it.”

The woods shop class is taught by Alan Terry. The students worked on various woods projects during the year. “The projects they work on are based on needs and wants of themselves, relatives, or by hire,” said Terry. “If they do not have any ideas, I hand them the photo album of projects, and then after they have chosen a project, I give them a catalog or pictures with measurements.”

Bluestreak clubs rocketed community status and showcased the talents of students.

It was another contest filled year for the ever so active FFA. Members put together many hours of community service and participated in a variety of state and regional competitions.

The journalism students produced eight great-looking newspapers with riveting stories. They also competed in the yearly contest held at the University of Kansas.

Stuco kept busy creating contests to build school and class pride. A class competition and a match-maker service topped off their year.

National Honor Society welcomed nine inductees to its prestigious ranks.

The National Honor Society and the Quiz Bowl provided academic excellence for the halls of this learning establishment that were stellar in every sense of the word. Both of these organizations stress and strive for new academic standards that are out of this universe. Although the Quiz Bowl and NHS get little attention, both are very important to the school.

The NHS is a group of individuals that have shown academic excellence throughout their high school career. The NHS initiated nine new members into their prestigious league. The founder and sponsor for the NHS chapter is Ted Hutchcraft. The members installed were sophomores Andrea Collins, T. J. Simpson, Adam Lackey, Natalie Webb, Nathan Twombly, Travis Clary, and Evan Dillman. Two juniors, Emily Stevens and Karie Diveley, were also initiated.

Chris Collins, junior, stated, "It is beneficial for college reference, and just to say you are a part of the National Honor Society."

The Quiz Bowl had an astronomical year, winning the Highland Invitational and placing third at the Horton quiz bowl meet. The Quiz Bowl finished the season with a winning record, being victorious in over half of their matches. Donna Parish sponsored the team once again and led them in vigorous practicing.

The FFA Chapter displayed cosmic leadership this year in FFA.

At the district leadership school the chapter team placed third in Parlaw Demonstration, sixth in Ritual Demonstration, and fifth overall. Stephanie Blevins, junior, soared through competition to receive Master Ritual Secretary.

Blevins also shone in her role as the Northeast District Sentinel. Occupying many weekends, Blevins said her experience as a district officer was “a great experience and very memorable.”

The FFA also displayed excellence in their newcomers, the Greenhands. The Greenhand team placed first in Parlaw Demonstration, Ritual, FFA Information, and the Overall plaque at leadership school.

Highest honors were presented to seniors at the banquet. Brad McCauley’s hard work and dedication earned him district Star Farmer and district Feed Grain Production. Clint Windmeyer won the district Wildlife Management Proficiency Award and the Soil and Water Management Award. State FFA Degree winners were Bob Hopkins, Shawn Tilton, McCauley, and Chris Blevins.

Rachael Jeschke, senior, chose to excel in a different side of FFA. Jeschke displayed her “National Talent” at the National FFA Convention. With a crowd of over thirty thousand people and lasers lighting the stage, Jeschke sang the national anthem to start the ceremonies.

“Through these many wonderful achievements, the FFA displayed outstanding leadership and role models for future participants. They have established a standard for years to come,” said Chris Blevins, president.

The student council did many things to promote school spirit with activities ranging anywhere from sponsoring Homecoming to hosting an Easter egg hunt.

Hilary Harness, student council president, said, “Everyone was very cooperative and enthusiastic. The monthly activities got the whole student body involved. Traditional events like the Easter egg hunt and the dances always go over the best.”

The journalism class was busy, as usual, with yearbook, newspaper, and contest deadlines. They attended the KSPA contest on Feb. 14 held at the Kansas University campus. Five students qualified for state with their entries. Stephanie Blevins, junior, placed third in layout and double-page spread, with Emily Stevens, junior, placing second in the same category. Harness, junior, placed third in infographics. Megan Batchelder, junior, placed second in advertising. Erin Jeschke, junior, came home with the gold in news writing.

The Bluestreak Speaks earned many awards. Overall, KSPA gave an award of commendation. The staff also earned its first All-Kansas award in design.

Donna Parish, journalism sponsor, said, “Since it was the first time we’d received an All-Kansas designation in design, I was pleased with and proud of the staff.”

The Fine Arts Program was at warp speed this year in all the departments. The choral department performed the Rodgers and Hammerstein classic The King and I.

The band worked on songs for the teams and various contest songs. Both choral and instrumental soloists went to State to show their musical talents.

Clay pots, ink pens, and still lifes were the scenes in the art department as well as working on the four flats for the musical. The art department also participated in the Duck Stamp Contest this year.

Hilary Harness, junior, said, “I especially liked this project because we got to research any kind of duck we wanted. I researched a green-winged duck; it’s the coolest bird alive!”

The choir performed The King and I on Nov. 14 and 15 at Highland Community College.

The setting for the fun-filled musical was in Siam. The King, played by Brad McCauley, wants his many children and wives to be educated about the European ways. Anna, played by Rachael Jeschke, and her son Louis, played by Adam Lackey, arrive to help the King. She is promised many things by the King such as a house and a good salary if she educates the children and wives. The King’s right hand man was played by Chris Blevins.

Rocky Ruhnke said, “I thought the play was very good. The lead roles did an exceptional job acting and singing.”

The humor and light-heartedness of the musical effected everyone from the performers to the audience. A few tears were even shed when the King passed away.

Chris Blevins said, “My favorite character was the King because the girls bowed at his feet, and my favorite scene was the whipping scene because I got to yell at Anna.”

One of the most amazing things about the play is that when the King would clap his hands, the chorus would all hit the floor with a simultaneous “thud.” Their bruised knees are proof of their practice to achieve that effect.

Throughout the performance both the King and Miss Anna learn many new things. The King learns that his way is not always right. Anna learns that though things may be different, they really are all the same. Lady Thiang, played by Mandy Brock is the Head Wife of the King. She helps Anna and the King learn from one another’s actions. The King and Anna don’t fall in love with each other, but they do earn each other’s respect.

The band and choir had a stellar year. Most of their time was spent preparing for contests, and performing at various events. The choir also spent many hours staging The King and I (see pages 44-45).

The marching band under the direction of Andrea Collins, sophomore, drum major, performed many formations at the home football games. The pep band played at most of the home basketball games.

The band, a mixture of high school and junior high musicians, received a I rating at the State competitions and a II at the Delaware Valley League Music Festival. The band also played at KU Band Day.

Jamie Baker, band instructor, said, “I was really pleased with the performance of the band. The end product has really improved. They did a great job.”

The choir performed at the DVL Music Festival and received a I rating. Juniors Stephanie Blevins and Cheyenne Dorrell and Senior Rachael Jeschke earned I ratings at State for solos.

Cheryl Rasmussen and Baker team-taught choir. Rasmussen said, “The choir did really well. It is great to have such a large group. They sounded great at contest. This was one of the best choirs we’ve had for a while.”

Most of the soloist participated in the DVL and regional competition. Jeschke received a I rating at DVL and regionals but did not participate at the State level. Collins received a I rating at all competitions. Photo by Bray’s.

The Swing Choir performed at many events which showed their rising talents and sound quality. Among the scheduled concerts were Swing Choir Tour: “Rockin’ 50s, 60s, and 70s,” which took them to JCN, Rainforest Montessori School, in Lawrence, and then back home to strut their stuff in front of the entire student body.

Brad McCauley, senior, had one of the many solos which enchanted the audience with his rendition of “Overnight Male.” McCauley said, “I enjoyed myself these past years being able to sing and have fun doing it. The dinner theatre where we saw ‘Rumors’ was the best part of the tour. Also, seeing the different schools and environments was fun in itself.”

The Swing Choir received a I rating at the Delaware Valley Music Festival, Regionals, and State competition. The girls’ ensemble also performed and received I ratings with the song “The Time of Singing.”

Chris Collins, junior, said, “I thought that the guys’ ensemble deserved to go to State due to their warm reception at Regionals.”

The Swing Choir graduated six of its members, leaving a big gap to fill. Emily Jeschke, junior, said, “I had a lot of fun during tour and State, and it will be very hard to replace the talent given by the seniors. They will be missed.”

Students have been showing off their artistic fluorescence in many ways this year. At the Federated Women’s Club art contest, the artists illuminated the school with six blue ribbons.

Holly Vandall, sophomore, didn’t like the Federated Women’s Club art contest because she said, “All students should win because they all put their time into it.”

At the beginning of the year, the students worked diligently on flats for the musical and painted windows for Fun Pumpkin Day. They also composed paintings to enter in the duck stamp contest. It was the first time they had entered that contest.

Linda Joseph, art teacher, said, “I like starting projects, but I’m also usually ready to finish them! It’s always interesting to see original ideas on the assignments. Art is so creative!”

Sandy Peters, freshman, described art as “experimentally stimulating.”

Later in the year the artists made tea pots for their clay project, entered the Highland Community College Art Day, and went to the Delaware Valley League competition in Pleasant Ridge. Five students received Honorable Mentions at the Highland Art Day, and three received them at DVL. The art history quiz was won by Norma Beck, senior.

Beck said, “I had studied for the Highland Art Day art history contest, and that just carried over to the DVL quiz.”

Next year, Joseph plans to have students make clay cottages and do a project with architecture.

Joseph said, “I like the small art classes this year. And knowing the students very well can be an advantage and a disadvantage.”

The sports teams were “out of this world” and brought out special qualities of every athlete.

The girls’ basketball team improved their record from last year. Bridget Blevins, solo senior basketball player, said, “Coach Brad Bingesser had a totally different coaching technique. It was one that fit our team’s disposition.”

Thanks to the cheerleaders’ supportive and spirited chants, sports activities were very enjoyable. “We worked really hard to establish school spirit and to keep the teams going,” said Stephanie Blevins, junior cheerleading captain.

“Our somewhat mediocre record did not represent the amount of work and talent that was shown by the squad. Furthermore, I would like to commend both players and coaches for an outstanding year. To make a final point, the athletic program here is of a higher caliber than most. The community should be proud in expressing their support for Highland student athletes,” said Bob Hopkins, senior.

Even with the devastating letdown in Regionals, the Blue streak Volleyball team had a successful season, ending with a 22-12 overall record and a 5-4 record in league play.

Megan Batchelder, hitter, and Stephanie Blevins, setter, were selected to the Volleyball DVL All-League Team for their 1996 season.

The ladies started out at an even pace at 5-6 coming out of the Highland Invitational after taking third place in their pool when defeating Troy and JCN and losing to Valley Heights and Centralia. Centralia then went on to take first place in the tournament.

The next challenge for the Streaks was the Troy Tournament where the ladies received a second place plaque after defeating Nodaway-Holt, Valley Falls, South Holt, and Wathena. The final game was against the Centralia Panthers where the ladies took a hard loss of 2-15, 4-15.

On Oct. 19, the Lady Streaks went down to Pleasant Ridge for the DVL Tournament where the ladies took second place in the overall tournament. The teams playing were Jackson Heights, McLouth, JCN, Wathena, and Oskaloosa. The ladies defeated all of the DVL competitors once, until the loss to Jackson Heights in the final match in three close games of 6-15, 15-2, 14-16.

The ladies then ended their season in Regional action which was held in Wetmore. The first match was against the Midway Eagles where they took the win with a score of 15-6, 15-3. The ladies then went on to play the Wetmore Cardinals and ended with a loss of 9-15, 5-15.

Although the football team was burdened by many injuries and hard falls, they never gave up. The season ended with a record of 4-5.

"We had hoped to finish the season with a better record, but because of injuries that haunted us this season, we fell short of our goal," said Rocky Ruhnke.

Chris Blevins, Jeff Butrick, Clint Windmeyer, and Will Simmons were the team captains. They each contributed individual efforts to provide leadership and experience.

Receiving Delaware Valley League honors for the team were seniors, Clint Windmeyer, Chris Blevins, and Joe Orozco. Windmeyer was named second team all league strong safety. He also led the team as quarterback. Blevins was a strength to the Bluestreaks, receiving DVL all-league second team linebacker. Orozco was selected as second team all-league deep tackle.

The cheerleaders were busy doing many activities to enhance the school spirit.

The cheerleaders did a lot more than just cheer at the games. They did several fund raisers and community events like a community pep rally during Homecoming and cake raffles at basketball games. The major fund raisers were a sand volleyball tournament and a car wash. The money they raised went toward camp at Emporia.

Hilary Harness, junior, said, "I had a lot of fun at camp, and we got a lot of new material to use." The junior cheerleaders led the pep squad and the crowd.

Stephanie Blevins, junior and captain, said, "I think the girls did a great job, and I had a lot of fun. I'm definitely looking forward to next year!"

Natalie Webb, sophomore, said, "At first I was worried about flying, but after awhile I learned to trust my bases or holders!"

The Lady Bluestreaks started off kind of slow with two back to back losses to Oskaloosa. Then they really came out of their shell by winning seven straight. The ladies ended their season with 11 wins and 9 losses.

The ladies were coached by Brad Bingesser with this being his first year at Highland. He and the team set some high goals.

T.J. Simpson, sophomore, said, “We came very close to reaching our goals and hopefully next year we will be able to reach them.”

The only senior player was Bridget Blevins. She received all-league first team and all-county second team. She was the second leading scorer and third leading rebounder on the team. The leading scorer and rebounder was Andrea Collins, sophomore. She also received first team all-league and second team all-county.

There were two freshmen that received valuable playing time for the years to come. These talented young ladies were Megan Blevins and Cate Batchelder. Megan Blevins said, “I thought I received a fair shot at a lot of playing time, even though I was a freshman. Hopefully next year I will have improved enough to help the team even more.”

Next year, with 11 returning letter women, the girls’ basketball team will have the experience to go a long way.

The boys’ basketball team ended their season with a final record of 9-11. “My senior year, compared to the other three years of basketball, was more difficult because we were the leaders. We were expected to live up to the good leaders we have had in the past,” said Will Simmon.

Receiving honors for the team were seniors, Jeff Butrick and Clint Windmeyer. Windmeyer made DVL honorable mention and second team all-county.

Butrick has received many awards throughout his career, and these only represent an ounce of his talent. Butrick was named all-tournament team in the IMAC and DVL tournaments. He also made the first team DVL and first team all-county. Butrick was later chosen to play in the Northeast Kansas All-Star game where he, among four others, was named all-star of the game. His individual effort led him to reach above 1000 points during his four years in basketball.

“I think we had the potential to do a lot better than we did. The team unity was just not up to par,” said Travis Clary, sophomore.

The track team blasted into the year with 29 eager members. The weather at the majority of the eight meets was undesirably cold and rainy.

Throughout the season, the girls’ team showed their athletic ability by placing in the top three at numerous meets. The boys also placed remarkably well with their small numbers.

As the season came to an end, the team held a 15 mile relay to get energized about the Regional meet. The relay began and ended at Sparks with record times. Gary Keehn, head coach, ran the entire 15 miles finishing ahead of all three teams. Once the race was over, the participants headed to Kirk and Connie Zeit’s for a picnic and awards presentation.

Joe Swain, junior, and T. J. Simpson, sophomore, won the awards for the Most Outstanding Athletes. Juniors Denise Blevins and Thatcher Reist were awarded Most Consistent Athletes. Lynn Windmeyer, freshman, earned the Most Improved Athlete award. Emily Jeschke was named the Team Leader. Gerald and Grace Jeschke were awarded the Outstanding Fan award for the second year running.

All of the hard work and dedication paid off for Swain and Colby Collins, junior, at the Regional meet in Marysville. Swain and Collins placed third in the 1600m and the 3200m, respectively, advancing to State competition.

The Cross Country team had a very good season. They sent three runners to State and did very well in the DVL. Emily Jeschke, Colby Collins, and Joe Swain enjoyed very fine seasons with all three of them going to State.

Collins and Emily Jeschke both received first in the county meets, and Swain placed second, while Evan Dillman finished eighth. Natalie Jeschke finished third, and Rachael Jeschke finished fourth.

At the DVL league meet the girls’ team finished fourth overall, and Emily and Rachael Jeschke placed on the all-league team with Emily Jeschke placing 6th which entitled her to a first team all league, and 2nd team runner Rachael Jeschke placed 11th overall. The boys’ team placed 4th over all too and had two runners achieve second team all-league with Collins placing tenth and Swain placing 13th.

At the Regional meet Emily Jeschke placed 9th which qualified her to go on to State. Natalie Jeschke finished 13th, and Rachael finished 15th. The boys had two people finish in the top ten with Collins leading the team with an outstanding third place finish, and Swain finished seventh. Dillman came in next from Highland with a 38th place, and Diveley finished 49th.

At the State meet the Highland runners competed with over a hundred runners on both boys’ and girls’ teams. Swain had the highest placing from Highland finishing 27th. Emily Jeschke placed with a strong 39th and Collins finished 47th.

Gary Keehn, coach, said, “I was pleased with the team unity both the boys and girls. I felt like we had a very good training year, and I hope that next year it shows up more consistently in meets.

Emily Jeschke said, “It was the most entertaining season I had, and was glad to have teammates at State. Jeschke also said, “I hope that next year I medal at State.

Swain said, “I felt that the season went very well, and I was surprised I did so well.” Swain also said that next year he wants to improve and take the season more seriously.

Rachael Jeschke said, “I am sad that this was my last year. It was very challenging sport, but I encourage everyone to try it.”

Next year’s cross country team will return all three of their State runners and should be very exciting to watch.

The special events took us to another galaxy where the world looked very small compared to all the excitement going on. Homecoming and King and Queen of Courts were out-of-this-world as the kings and queens were shown to all the viewing earthlings.

The Barnwarming candidates proved that they weren’t really aliens, and actually fit in quite well, as they showed their muscles by doing various farm-based work to battle for the title of Sweetheart.

“Carried Away” was the junior’s theme for Prom. This pick seemed to be perfect as the shimmering dresses and studs in their tuxes simply took the breath out of the cosmic crowd. Kelly Merkel, junior, said, “I thought everyone looked dazzling in their evening attire, as we usually don’t dress up for dances.”

The honorable space cadets arrived to pick up all their awards given on Awards Night. The seniors seemed to dominate the ceremony as they walked away with many awards.

The long-awaited arrival finally came, graduation. The seniors left the high school to begin a life of their own. They went out beautifully and left us with many memories, like shooting stars.

Prom night was celebrated by many as the theme “Carried Away” proved to do just that with the joys and expectations of all who attended. Chris Blevins and Natalie Webb displayed their excitement while dancing the night away. Chris Collins is seen trying to get in on the action. Photo by Bray’s.

Once again the highlight of the fall sport season has shined on the two lucky individuals chosen to be the king and queen of the Homecoming tradition. As the ‘97 Ford Pickups slowly wheeled around the track carrying the candidates, during half time of the football game, excitement mounted throughout the crowd.

Chris Blevins and Bridget Blevins came away with the King and Queen honors before a large crowd who were on hand to watch the ceremony and support the Bluestreak football squad.

The Blevins duo were among great competition for the crown from the other honorable candidates including Mandy Brock, Kristi Kelley, Rachael Jeschke, Norma Beck, Brad McCauley, Jeff Butrick, Clint Windmeyer, and Will Simmons.

Chris Blevins, king, said, “I felt very honored to be elected Homecoming king.”

Oskaloosa Bears 21-7. The game was followed by a dance at the high school. STUCO was the sponsor of the dance, providing the D.J. and refreshments.

Not only was Homecoming night full of activities, so was the week building up to it. Activities were planned for every day of the week. These included a bonfire held the night before the game and a parade the day of.

The winners of the float competition were the juniors, closely followed by the sophomores, and freshmen. Coming in dead last were the mighty seniors whose float was a monster truck look alike.

Spirit Week provided laughs and spirit for the Bluestreak supporters. Monday was "Just get out of bed day." Troy Lewis reigned supreme when the winner was chosen. Megan Batchelder, Kelly Merkel, and Andrea Collins were also champions of Spirit Week craziness.

Barnwarming was held on Monday, Oct. 7, at 6:00 p.m. Candidates Kelly Merkel, Erin Jeschke, Natalie Webb, T.J. Simpson, Cate Batchelder, and Megan Blevins participated in a night full of interviews, information tests, speeches, and chores. After many fun activities, Merkel was proudly crowned as chapter Sweetheart, and Simpson was runner up.

The judges for the night were Angie Eberly and Michael Springer, State FFA Treasurer. They were busy asking questions during the interview and judging chores.

FFA members and families sponsored a delicious potluck meal which everyone enjoyed. Twenty-three businesses around the area donated to Barnwarming.

After a wonderful meal, everyone gathered in the agriculture building to listen to speeches from the candidates. The topic was “If you were running for president of the United States, what would your platform be for the agricultural community?” Michael Springer was the guest speaker.

Next, came the best part of the evening - the chores. They consisted of Pie Eatin’, an Obstacle Course, Fresh-Ropin’, Bale Slingin’, and Livestock judging. Jeschke said, “The funniest part of the chores was when we were splicing the wire on the obstacle course, and Megan Blevins said, ‘You’re goin’ down, Jeschke!’”

The final activity of the night, before the Sweetheart was announced was the infamous work sale. This tradition brought in over $3000. Members are sold for an eight hour work day which includes one meal supplied by the buyer. “The work sale is very beneficial to our chapter. It brings in over half of our money. We appreciate the support of our community,” said Chris Blevins, FFA chapter president.

Rachael Jeschke and Jeff Butrick were crowned King and Queen at half time of the Hyman Brand Hebrew Academy on Feb. 13. Attendents were Norma Beck, Bob Hopkins, Mandy Brock, Clint Windmeyer, Kristi Kelley, and Brad McCauley. “It was an honor to be chosen Queen of Courts, but it was funny because Jeff and I haven’t always been best friends,” said Jeschke.

The freshmen added a new touch to the ceremony. Red, pink and white balloons made two heart-shaped arches over the candidates creating a magical affect. Megan Blevins, freshman, said, “We liked the idea when we saw it. The balloons were an excellent touch to the King and Queen ceremony.” Couples took the court to the song “Someday” by All-4-One.

Maggie Gilmore, daughter of Brad and Becky Gilmore, was flower girl. The crown bearer was Dakota Zeit, son of Kirk and Connie Zeit.

The Cheerleaders held an inspirational Pep Rally. Candidates did their own version of a scene from Romeo and Juliet which was very entertaining.

The King and Queen of Courts dance was Feb. 14. Butrick said, “The dance was a lot of fun. It was a great time for me to be with my friends.”

The plans were set, the gym was decorated, and all the students were ready to be “Carried Away” on the night of, April 19. All had their own style with cars, trucks, and even a combine that were washed, waxed and ready to be displayed with a cruise up and down Main Street. The school was decorated with the colors of raspberry and gold, and russette flowers and gold roses were placed beautifully around the room.

Stephanie Blevins, junior class president, gave a spiritual speech to spark the evening, and Brad McCauley spoke for the seniors to say thanks. The invocation was given by Kelly Merkel, junior, and everyone sat down and enjoyed a divine meal with the main course of a delicious grilled chicken breast.

Once the meal was over and the pictures were shot, the students grabbed their dancing shoes along with their partners and began to dance. Kristi Kelley, senior, said, “The decorations were excellent and very impressive.” The students danced the night away and even sang a few songs on the karaoke machine offered by the DJ, Tracy Waller of St. Joseph.

After-prom was held at Olympia Lanes for a fun-filled night with lots of laughter, bowling, video games and many great prizes donated by many nearby businesses and families. Some of the items given out included an RCA television, boom box, two telephones, Royals tickets, Worlds of Fun tickets, T-shirts and many gift certificates. Chris Blevins, senior, walked away with both the television and one of the phones. Chris Blevins said, “I felt that I got my money’s worth after coming away with two great prizes.”

As the night came to an end, many of the students as well as the sponsors were all getting very tired, but there were still a few ready to go for another round with or without any rest.

After listening to the senior class’ rendition of their history, many hard-working students made their way to the stage to receive awards.

The May 16 Awards Ceremony had a lot to offer. Among the awards given were recognition of community service, art, music, academic excellence, and perfect attendance.

Scholarships, which could only be won by seniors, were awarded to Chris Blevins, Bridget Blevins, Kristi Kelley, and Brad McCauley.

The Armed Services Scholar Athlete Award was won by Jeff Butrick, senior, and Stephanie Blevins, junior. The NBA Sportsmanship Award was given to Andrea Collins, sophomore, and McCauley.

Evan Dillman, sophomore, received an award for having the most number of community service with 154 hours.

Citizenship awards were awarded to Chris Blevins and Mandy Brock, both seniors. They also received awards for being involved in choir for four years, and were joined by Shane Smith, Clint Windmeyer, Jeff Butrick, Brad McCauley, and Rachael Jeschke, also all seniors.

Quiz Bowl participants received stars to add to their collections. Swing Choir members were also awarded letters for their hard work throughout the year.

On Sunday, May 25, after four long years of study, homework, and harassing teachers, the class of 1997 made their final memories at Highland High School.

The feelings of the class at this time was best described in the duet Straight From the Heart sang by Rachael Jeschke and Mandy Brock. After the applause, a valedictory address was given by Jeff Butrick. He wished his friends luck in whatever they do and said that time was precious.

Roger Hopkins, HHS Alumnus of 1971 and mayor of Highland, told of how he had enjoyed watching this class get older and made several jokes to illustrate his points. He ended his speech by stating that maybe one day one of these students could be the second best mayor Highland has ever had.

While diplomas were being given, the lights decided to go out for a short while several times which stirred some excitement from some and some whooping and hollering from others.

The ceremony was concluded with the Swing Choir singing Someday. The teary-eyed classmates then stood at the back of the gymnasium because of the bad weather outside.

All in all, the future does indeed look bright for the class of 1997, and they will take on whatever endeavors may come their way.

The accumulation of memories in this book are an example of life on earth at Highland High. Hopefully each owner of The Bluestreak will use his/her imagination to make the time spent and memories made at Highland High School out of this world. The staff would like to give a special thanks to Russell Karn, Bray's, Jostens, and everyone who donated time and money to the production of this yearbook.
