Leaving OUR MARK Behind

Growing up in this small community is both a blessing and a lesson in its own way, and even if you've only been here for a year or so, it's pretty easy to catch on to. Everybody knows everybody just a little too well, but it can be a good thing because being as small as we are, we come together pretty well, too. We have so many memories and impressions that we've made here together. These are the times of our lives that we want to live on forever, even though sometimes we just can't wait for them to be over. When we grow old we want to be remembered, whether we are still here or have taken our journey of life elsewhere. We want there to be sign that we once walked through the halls of Doniphan West High School as students. This year, we're leaving our mark on D-West.

Mark Your Calendars For Summer!

During the summer, we all like to do our own thing whether it be going out with friends or family or maybe just chilling at home by ourselves. Some people take "selfies" and others take group shots. Whether it be biking, swimming, fishing, or just having fun, we can always find something to do during the summer. These photos show how we made our mark on the summer of 2013.

Justin Clark, 10, Jeffrey Watts, 11, Tynan Bollinger, 11, Luke Rush, 12, Lane Spiker, 10, Austin Taylor, 10, Cooper Leach, 10, Devin Taylor, 8, Trevor Taylor, 9, and Wade Joyce, 10, pose for a picture after winning 1st in the Atchison basketball league.

Justin Clark, 10, is ready to hit the road for a 100-mile bike ride with his dad.

Sam Albers, 12, Jaime Albers, 9, Ian Crandall, 11, and Cory Smith, 10, pose with cattle at "Better Beef Day."

Mackenzie Boos, 11, feeds a cow with her mouth on a mission trip.

Payton Leach, 12, gives Jeffrey Watts, 11, a hug after his summer baseball game.

Malachi Manis, 9, poses for a "selfie" while a summer storm blows behind him.

Kimble Trainer, 9, takes a summer "selfie."

Trevor Taylor, 9, and Austin Taylor, 10, enjoy the thrilling Prowler ride at Worlds of Fun.

Lexie Whetstine, 10, and Mia Scott, 9, take a fun photo while mudding.

Ian Bollinger, 12, Allen Dorrell, 12, Luke Rush, 12, Brandon Caudle, 11, and Tynan Bollinger, 11, participate in the annual Bendena summer parade.

Kenzie Blevins, 10, Leah Johnson, 11, and Bailey Boos, 11, take a photo at state FFA.

Kayla Cook, 11, poses inside a doorway at the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame.

Cori Pottorf, 10, Abbi Ellis, 12, and Kim Elliott, 12, take a photo during a summer bonfire.

Joey Edie, 10, and his dad go fishing at the Wolf River.

Meghan Larson, 12, and Macee Scott, 12, pose for a picture before they head off to Lakefest in Atchison.

Jessica Parker, 11, and Katie Smith, 12, pose for a quick shot.

Payton Leach, 12, and Madison Smith, 12, take a quick snapshot before going fishing.

Brooklyn Rush, 8, and Mia Scott, 9, tube at Lake of the Ozarks.

Houston Cluck, 10, hauls in two nice size catfish.

Cooper Leach, 10, Payton Leach, 12, and Jeffrey Watts, 11, pose at the pool.

Allen Dorrell, 12, sells seed at a cattle show.

Sam Albers, 12, and Kyleigh Edie, 12, laugh while they take a ride on a ferris wheel.

Wade Joyce, 10, shoots at an old toilet while Bear, his dog, poses for a picture.

Friend Chris Tharman and Ian Crandall, 11, have a shot taken when Ian falls asleep at 4-H camp.

Kyleigh Edie, 12, friend Jeanay Sargent, and Joey Edie, 10, hop on a giant jumping pillow at Yogi Bear Camp.

Regan Gibson, 11, and Macee Scott, 12, snap a photo while on a ride at the Horton Fair.

Austin Taylor, 10, puts up tef signs on test plots.

Q: How do you feel about taking on the senior role and graduation next year?

"I want to be the guy that underclassmen look up to and respect. I'm ready to be done with all the homework and the stress, but I'm going to miss all the people I've become friends with over the last 13 years."

Brandon Caudle

"I feel it will be fun and I hope I will be a role model for future lan's to come. Graduation will also be fun because I will finally be able to stay up past 9:30 but I will miss all the fun of high school."

Ian Crandall

"I am excited to be a senior next year. It is going to be bittersweet, but I am ready to graduate and get started on the real world."

Bailey Boos

"Taking on senior role is an exciting but nervous role. Being a senior, you need to show the underclassmen that it's best to do your best in school. As much as we classmates fight, we are family and I want to say good luck next year CLASS OF 2015!!"

Kylee Powell

If you're a senior at Doniphan West, the words "Senior Project" might make you tremble. Senior project is an assignment required as a student of DWHS that will either make you or break you. It required each student to pick a topic of choice and do many speeches and assignments about that topic and then give a final speech in front of judges who specialize in that topic at the end of the year.

From detached retinas, to changing the stereotype of a pit bull, this year's seniors chose quite a variety of topics for their senior projects. Speech after speech, and report by report, the seniors learned more and more about their chosen topics.

Some of the seniors chose topics that they hope will help them pursue their careers such as documentary photojournalism or pediatric nursing. Other students chose a topic based on a hobby they have such as scenario paintball. Even though the seniors encountered a great deal of stress, they learned a lot about their topics, as well as their futures.

SENIOR PROJECT & LANGUAGES

1. Elayne Clevenger reveals her monster on society to her English class.

2. Kim Elliott laces up a pair of shoes for her demonstration speech.

3. The ASL class of freshmen sign the alphabet.

4. Lane Spiker and English teacher Marla Taylor compete in a game of Guesstures.

5. Ian Bollinger, 12, all geared up in paintball attire for senior project day.

6. For her demonstration speech, Macee Scott properly wraps Meghan Larson's ankle.

Spanish students Malachi Manis, 9, Kody Collins, 10, and Kirsten Huss, 9.

Kim Elliott, 12, paints half of Brielle Clary's face with stage makeup for a demonstration.

Julie Vonderschmidt prepares for her senior project over being a veterinarian.

American Sign Language (ASL) students Phillip Simmonds, Mia Scott, l'Quajanae Jackson, and Cara Prawl, 9, practice some common words in sign language.

Trevor Fee, 12, shouts at his temporary soldiers in his demonstration of knowledge.

What was your senior project topic?

"My project was over the Marine Corps and its history."
Trevor Fee, 12

"My senior project topic was Documentary Photojournalism and understanding the concept of writing at taking photos."
Kyleigh Edie, 12

"My senior project topic was Retinal Detachment of the eye."
Scotti Twombly, 12

Jeffery Watts, 11, Kassydi Miller, 11, and science teacher, Bethany Cluck light a Bunsen burner.

Freshmen in Algebra 1 Nakoma Gomer, Ivory Kitzman, Carlie Taylor, l'Quajanae Jackson, and Denny Anderson work on an Algebra lesson.

During an Anatomy heart dissection lab, Scotti Twombly closely examines this pig heart.

What was your favorite learning activity?

Learning about the clouds in the sky.
Hailey Fee, 9

"My favorite thing to do was the biome project."
Ian Nuzum, 10

"Learning about marine biology was fun especially when I did a project about sea horses."
Kyleigh Powell, 12

Sitting at desks is not always the preferred way to spend the 85 minute class period, and the science and math teachers provided many opportunities for students to move.

Carl Swendson had students play Math Ball. Payton Leach said she liked playing Math Ball because it was a fun and competitive game that took her mind off the hard math material she had to learn that day.

Math teacher Troy Hoffman often had students moving around the school, racing, counting, and measuring, such as the time when he had a class calculate their miles per hour sprinting in the gym.

Science teacher Bethany Cluck had students involved with setting up the salt water fish tank. They also dissected pig hearts, made DNA chains, extracted DNA from their mouths, did blood typing, and presented projects about the different biomes around the globe.

Leach enjoyed the blood typing lab in Anatomy and said, "All of us flipped out the whole time!"

SCIENCE & MATH

2. Cory Smith, 10, staples together a DNA chain for Biology 1.
3. Juniors Bailey Boos and Leah Johnson do their math in Mr. Swendson's class.
4. Juniors Ian Crandall and Brandon Caudie help teacher Bethany Cluck clean her fish tank out.
5. Meghan Larson, 12, doesn't let a little blood bother her during the heart dissection in Anatomy.
6. Science teacher Bethany Cluck helps Payton Leach understand the chart for determining her blood type.

When you leave high school you've gained enough knowledge to leave and start a life of your own. Whether the next step be college or job hunting, you need to know the basics of life in general--like how to see the government, how to pay bills, and write checks, how to know where your money is going, how to parent your children, or how to make food or do the laundry and dishes.

All of these things are known to high school students because of the Social Studies and FACS classes. Bailey Lanter taught all Social Studies classes including American History, American Government, Cultural Anthropology or World History.

Second year teacher Molly Grusenmeyer taught all FACS classes. Some of these classes included Interior Design, Nutrition and Wellness, Career and Life Planning, and Parenting.

Top right: Tynan Bollinger, Bailey Boos, and others in American History share their findings with the class after reading primary documents analyzing the causes of World War I.

Below: Siblings Christina Norton and Trevor Fee have a difference of opinion about which kitchen to return the utensils.

SOCIAL STUDIES & FACS

1. FACS teacher Molly Grusenmeyer and Jessica Parker, 11, show that taking care of Real Care Baby can't be all that bad.

2. Andrew Hughes, 10, shares part of his interior design project.

3. Luke Rush, 12, gives a presentation to the American Government class.

4. Mackenzie Boos, 11, provides feedback to Bailey Lanter about a video the class just watched.

5. In Cultural Anthropology, Madison Smith, Allen Dorrell, and Adam Wilmes choose a scenario for what will happen to their tribe.

6. Phillip Simmonds survived a night with Real Care Baby and is ready to give it back.

Megan Green, 12, looks for help from her favorite teacher, Molly Grusenmeyer.

Kayla Cook, Tynan Bollinger, Alysa Simmons, Regan Gibson, Bailey Boos, Mackenzie Boos, Jessica Parker, and Ian Crandall present their 2-dimensional projects for American History.

Kody Collins, 10, shows Justin Clark, 10, how to properly use a measuring cup.

Interior Design students show off the homes that they have constructed.

Casey Billups, 10, is showing his homemade house in Interior Design.

What was your most memorable part of class with Mrs. Lanter or Ms. Grusenmeyer?

"Mrs. Lanter made learning in American Government interesting."
Allen Dorrell, 12

"I liked any days when we cooked, but I especially liked our hamburgers."
Houston Cluck, 10

"Houston Cluck made a really good strawberry smoothie in Nutrition and Wellness class."
Justin Clark, 10

What was your favorite ag activity?

"Going on any FFA trip with Mr. Schmitz!"
Lexie Whetstine, 10

"State convention because playing pranks on people I am rooming with, but I also like to learn about FFA." Hunter Idol, 10

"My favorite would have to be livestock judging or any leadership activity." Jaime Albers, 9

If you want to chop a chicken's head off and pluck it's feathers, then ag classes and FFA might be the place for you.

FFA does a wide array of activities throughout the year, and one of them was raising and processing chickens at teacher Elmer Schmitz's house. Not everyone got involved, but a small group helped to see the processing from beginning to end.

Other activities include going to CDE's, attending both national and state conventions, participating in fruit sales in the fall and then flower sales in the spring.

FFA is not all about agriculture and farming. Horticulture classes plant flowers, and Ag Mechanics learns about tools, welding, and small engines.

FFA also teaches about leadership and public speaking.

From plucking feathers, to welding, to public speaking, FFA offers something for everyone.

FFA & AGRICULTURE

6. Kortin Blevins, Allen Dorrell, Ian Bollinger, and Luke Rush dunk headless chickens into hot water to loosen the feathers.

Music teacher Curtis Stroud is on the lookout--for students with musical talent, and he wants them to play or sing to the best of their ability. In time, he would like to have more kids participating in contest and be able to take the band and choir to contest. Also, he would like to build a stronger and larger pep band program to help better support the student athletes.

"For those students that are not enrolled in band or choir, they are really missing out on the joy of music," he said. "Music is a universal language that everyone can relate to. Without music, this world would be a pretty boring place."

P.E. is a fun way to exercise while working hard and getting better. Teacher Nick Fuemmeler's goals for P.E. students were to become bigger, faster, and stronger. "We want every kid to become more athletic in every way that they can, and one way to do that is in the weight room," he said.

In addition to weights, P.E. students often completed agilities, which consisted of running around cones in a pattern to make each person quicker on their feet.

One of a few games that were played was mat ball, which was having four mats on the floor in the corners and kicking the ball then running. They also played dodge ball, which got really competitive at times. Sometimes they would even go outside to play a game of two-hand touch football.

"This year I feel like every person has gotten bigger, faster, or stonger and maybe even all of them," Fuemmeler said.

Design is something that you can use to express yourself, whether you're designing an art project, or the logo of a website for a computer class.

The students of DWHS have had a history of expressing themselves with the help of their instructors. Art instructor Stanley Thornton helps his students through all types of projects, such as acrylic, clay, mixed media and many other types of projects.

Computer instructor Melissa Crawford also helps her students create the popular "Mustang Television" where students report and edit news on lunch, weather, sports, and anything that goes on in the school.

Although these classes are usually electives, students learn as much as they would from a core class and even do more hands-on work.

Mustangs persevere, look to build a foundation, give coach hope

Despite struggles team makes strides

With a roster dominated by underclassmen, the guys worked on building a solid foundation and competing until the final whistle of the last game.

Despite a losing record, coach Nick Fuemmeler was proud of his young team. "There's no question that this was at times a very frustrating season for us," Fuemmeler said, "but I don't know if I've ever had a team show as much composure and perseverance as what this team did. I think that just shows the kind of character that these kids have. A lot of groups would have packed it in about week five and the last four games would have been really ugly.

"I think these guys actually practiced harder the second half of the season than they did early. That's tough to do when you're struggling in the win column and that should be applauded! As a coach that gives me a lot of hope for the future.

"I have no doubt that this season was one in which we built the foundation for the future. We kept things simple, gained valuable varsity experience, and we were put into many game situations from which we were able to learn. We were competitive in seven of our nine games while starting seven sophomores and a freshman.

"This group has shown a willingness to work hard on the practice field and in the weight room, and with another year of speed and strength gains under their belts, they should compete well next fall."

After a shaky start, girls find their stride with several wins

Mustangs take steps forward in TVL

The Lady Mustangs started the season off a little shaky with several losses in the new, Twin Valley League. But as the season progressed, coach Bailey Lanter said the girls found their stride, getting several wins in both league and non-league competition.

The varsity girls also saw success in several of their tournaments, placing fourth at both the Valley Falls and Frankfort tournaments.

The team was lead this year by four senior leaders, showing leadership both on and off the court.

There were several positions to be filled at the beginning of the season, with upper classmen stepping up to the challenge and building a strong volleyball team.

Although the season saw many ups and downs, major steps forward were taken ensuring continued success in the volleyball program.

Enduring harsh weather and practices, the cross country team strives to compete in state

Girls cross country goes to State

The cross country team consisted of eight runners--seven girls and one boy, which led them to call themselves "Casey and the Gang."

This gang started out the season by going to Wamego on Sept. 14 and they were successful. The Lady Mustang runners placed 12th as a team with Mackenzie Boos, 11, leading the way with a time of 21:11, followed by Kassydi Miller, 11, and Jessica Neibling, 12, at 21:36 and 21:42 respectively. Kim Elliott, 12, and Macee Scott, 12, were next at 23:29 and 23:35 respectively with Elayne Clevenger, 12, finishing at 27:22. Casey Billups, 10, completed the 5000 meter course in 30:14.

The team made their way to state by placing third with 33 points at regionals in Lincoln on Saturday, Oct. 26.

At the state meet, the first finisher for the team was Miller in 45th place with a time of 19:36. Boos was next in 53rd place with a time of 20:30. Clevenger and Neibling finished 64th and 65th respectively with times of 21:02 and 21:07. Elliott finished her senior season with a personal best of 22:08 in 74th place. Cara Prawl, 9, came in next at 75th with a time of 22:09, which was a personal best.

The runners improved their times over the season and were focused on getting better.

Wrestlers co-op with Troy, have successful season

Fee qualifies, Dunlap places second at state

For the 8th year in a row, Mustang wrestling made an appearance at the 3-2-1A state tournament in Hays. Senior Trevor Fee made his 3rd appearance, and sophomore Garret Dunlap made his 2nd appearance.

Dunlap placed second at 160lbs. He started off with a 13-0 major decision against Gavin Farzi of Anthony/Harper-Chaparral. In the quarterfinals, he overcame an early six point deficit to secure a third period pin over regional champion Kendall Miller of Norton.

In the semifinals, Dunlap faced Lucas McMichael of Burden Central. McMichael earned a first period takedown, but Dunlap was able to score a reversal in the closing seconds of the first period to tie the match at 2-2. In the second and third periods, Dunlap wore his opponent down and pinned him in the third period.

In the finals, Dunlap faced number one ranked, 39-0 senior Bowe Behymer of Beloit. He battled hard and had Behymer on his back at one point in the match, but ended up losing a 12-8 decision, to place second in state.

Fee went 1-2 at state. In the first round, he faced Adam Janzen of Marion. Fee lost 8-6 in overtime, but he bounced back in his next match to pin Grant Gilliam of Oberlin. In the second round of consolation matches, Trevor lost to Scott Birkinsha of ACCHS.

Doniphan West finished with 26 team points, which tied them for 23rd place out of 76 teams.

Tough TVL competition requires intense four quarters of play

Boys develop teamwork, better practice habits

The season-opening, non-league win over Riverside at home was a huge victory and gave the Mustangs a little confidence about the season ahead of them, yet they knew the TVL schedule was going to be tough. To win a game took four quarters of intense play and teamwork, and that did not always happen.

As the season progressed, the boys saw little success in the win column, but coach David Johnson saw success in other ways. He believes the boys developed better practice habits and started to learn how hard it is to compete night in and night out.

And even though the boys managed only three wins in league play, coach Johnson feels that the TVL is a good place to be. "Our team will only benefit from competing at the level the TVL displays," he said.

Looking ahead to next year, Johnson said he wants the team to learn how important it is to play together as a team and continue to get better every drill, every practice and every game.

To prepare for next year, the boys must improve on their 31% shooting and get more points on the board. Over the summer, coach Johnson challenged them to shoot 10,000 shots, and they played in leagues at Sabetha and Atchison.

Lady Mustangs adjust well to TVL competition

Girls learn to be flexible, stay positive

Head coach Troy Hoffman believes that many positives came out of joining the TVL this year.

"Joining the premiere 1-A league in the state," he said, "forced us to us to play at a higher level each night, and I think it took a while to realize the changes we need to make." Among those changes were to be more disciplined on defense, and he said the girls responded by challenging their opponents on every possession.

Offensively, they needed to embrace their roles, and they responded by perfecting their God-given talents.

They showed the community and the league that circumstance never dictates a person's actions.

"You can be successful if you choose to be," Hoffman said. "The girls were constantly forced to redefine their roles due to numerous injuries. So they learned to be more flexible and with that maintain a positive attitude. The biggest gain was in their understanding that preparation does affect confidence level. Confidence comes from demonstrated ability."

At the end the season, Hoffman reflected that the positives they took from the season were more mental than physical. His quote for the year was: You reap what you sow, more than you sow, and later than you sow. The success of this season will be judged 10 years from now.

Girls gain new coach, try to make it a tip-top year

Being a Doniphan West Cheerleader/Fillie

Morning practices, stunting, and performances are things associated with being a cheerleader and dancer, but that's sure not all there is to it.

Being a Doniphan West Fillie and Cheerleader is more like a job. The girls start mid-April right after tryouts and don't stop till the next tryouts while practicing during the summer and all throughout the school year.

When asked what her favorite part of the year was, Mia Scott, 9, said, "I liked doing the dances! And learning new diddies! And cheers!"

Carlie Taylor, 9, said, "I loved doing dances and just talking with everybody!"

Being a cheer and dancer has its hard sides according to returner, Mackenzie Boos, 11. "With only 100 kids in your high school, it's hard to get everybody pumped and ready for the game but we do what we can and it all turns out!"

One new crowd favorite performance was a black light dance done in the pitch dark gym during basketball. The girls wore white tops and pants decorated in neon colors, which glowed when lit with a black light.

Kenzie Blevins, 10, said, "I liked learning the 'Everyday Birthday' and doing it in the black lights for our last performance."

Tracksters strive for personal bests

Track is a mental and physical sport; it's a 50-50 type of deal. Whether it is during practices or when there is actually a meet, track is a type of sport that doesn't give a break. Everyone puts in many hours of work trying to get better at what they do.

Long distance runners complete two to four miles a day at practice. Sprinters do short distance repeaters whether it be 40's, 100's, or 200's. Jumpers, at a minimum, can jump as many times as 13 times a practice. Throwers do just as much as jumpers and sometimes throw more than just one event.

There were multiple PR's or personal records set this season.

Kenzie Blevins, 10, set school records for her two events: long jump and triple jump, and she placed fifth in the long jump at state. Payton Leach, 12, qualified for state in the high jump and placed 15th.

The year was long and strenuous for some, but in the end, all the hard work, complaining, and overcoming injuries all paid off in some way or another.

No matter what would come up, the athletes had to remember to stay confident in what they were doing and the kids just had to go out and compete. If they didn't compete, coach Nick Fuemmeler would remind them: COMPETE COMPETE COMPETE!

Big hits, wins, dugout laughs stand out among memories Mustangs improve hitting average

Going 4-12 isn't the ideal season for any athlete or team, but the Mustang baseball saw improvements.

Coach Derek Shelton said the boys made a huge jump offensively, averaging 5.4 runs a game this year compared to 2.3 last year. The team's strength, he added, was hitting the ball. "We were never really out of a game because of the way we could score runs."

Next season Shelton looks for the boys to get better on defense.

Not only will the boys will remember the team and individual triumphs, they will remember the laughs and the dugout stories as well.

Senior Ian Bollinger said being with a close group of friends made the season fun. Bollinger said their best game was the second one against Immaculata. "We just kept playing well and moving the score up."

Hunter Idol, 10, said the team stuck together even when the game wasn't going as they wanted. "Our best game," he said, "was the McLouth game because we all hit the ball really well and came from behind to win."

"Everyone had a blast being around each other," Cooper Leach, 10, said. "Our team could find something positive about anything." He said his favorite memory was when "Tynan was up to bat and fouled off like 18 times."

Who says you need 9 to play?

Eight had to be enough this year

Although the season may have been a rough one with a fluctuating number of girls and one being hurt, the Lady Mustangs still had fun and played through obstacles.

The goals for this year were to have good effort, be positive, talk to teammates on the field, hustle after every ball, and be a good teammate. When something happens just shake it off and move on--don't let it stick with you because then you will make more mistakes and no longer be positive.

At many games, there were not enough girls to field an entire team, but they managed to play with eight. It was not an ideal situation, but they played through that and focused on showing improvement.

At practice they continued to work at improving, even if it was crazy Wednesday. Occasionally, they would do things like hit fruit at the coaches and get to hit pinatas with candy in them.

Almost every night before a game they would have team bonding where they all got together and ate supper and sometimes would watch a movie. If they weren't at coach Melissa Crawford's house, then they would be in St. Joe eating and goofing around.

The softball girls learned to play through anything and that made them stronger people.

Homecoming Candidates

Parade, bonfire, powder puff football, and spirit week were just a few of the activities for Homecoming.

Every day there was a different theme to dress up for, and the class with most participation won spirit points. For the float contest, juniors won, freshmen were second, sophomores third, and seniors fourth. On Friday activities were volleyball, musical chairs, and a movie.

The football team took on Maur Hill on Friday Oct. 4, 2013 and came out with the win. During halftime Adam Wilmes was crowned king and Macee Scott queen.

After the game was the homecoming dance. Pizza and snacks were provided. They had a slow dance specifically for the candidates. DJ Landon Allen provided good music, so students were able to dance the night away until midnight.

1. While the time dwindled, Homecoming candidate Scotti Twombly, 12, throws a pan full of cheeseballs to her partner, Adam Wilmes, 12, in hopes that they will land on his shaving cream filled head.

2. Ian Crandall, 11, shows his epic frustration towards Joey Edle, 10, who swiftly stole his seat in a game of musical chairs.

3. Allen Dorrell and Trevor Fee, 12, show off their risqué attire and horseshoe tattoos during the gym activities.

4. Luke Rush, Macee Scott, Scotti Twombly, Adam Wilmes, Payton Leach, and Ian Bollinger jump for joy as they snap a candidate photo at Jeffrey Watts' house.

5. Ivory Kitzman, 9, Cammi Sparks, 10, Tara Coffelt, 9, Ian Nuzum, 10, Kian Miller, 11, and Sanciya Gonzales, 9 pose for a picture on the last day of the homecoming activities.

6. Sophomores Cori Pottof, Aubree Robinson, and Kenzie Blevins get excited after the sophomore boys just won a volleyball game.

7. Juniors Kylee Powell and Kayla Cook alongside sophomores Andy Hughes and Casey Billups have fun watching the games during Homecoming activities in the gym.

8. King Adam Wilmes and Queen Macee Scott come together for the dance to honor the King and Queen.

Despite being the only ones in the stands for Powder Puff, Kimble Trainer, 9, and Ian Crandall, 11, still make a great pep club.

In the DWHS musical "Through the Looking Glass," Alice (Kim Elliott) took audience members into her magical dream world for three fine performances on Nov. 14, 15, and 16.

The story, which was loosely based on "Alice in Wonderland," took place in Wonderland and featured both familiar and new characters. Alice entered this dreamlike world and wanted to become a Queen. As she journeyed across spaces of a chess board, she encountered several unique characters that see life in a backwards way.

The Red and White Queens, Red and White Pawns, Tweedle Dee and Tweedle Dum, Humpty Dumpty, Red and White Knights, Dixie Chickens, talking flowers, and the Responsibilities all took part in Alice's quest to become Queen.

Kayla Cook, 11, who played the Red Pawn said, "My favorite part was bringing out the pudding because it got a laugh every night."

The brightly painted set, clever songs and choreography, and colorful costuming and makeup--all combined with the talents of the DWHS play cast and crew--made for a successful musical. The directors were Stanley Thornton and Curtis Stroud.

2014 Winter Royalty was a memorable time with awesome dress up days, a good dance, and sparkly decorations.

The week also consisted of a food drive in which the classes competed to decorate a shopping cart and fill it up with non-perishable food items.

The candidates also got to compete in games at a pep rally.

The dress up days were redneck day, rainbow day, favorite team, black out, and Friday was blue and orange day.

Then Friday night at half time of the boy's game Madison Smith and Allen Dorrell were crowned King and Queen.

1. On the first day of Spirit Week, sophomores Wade Joyce and Justin Clark show their redneck side.

2. A handful of students participate in the black out day.

3. Lane Spiker, 10, Luke Rush, 12, and Jeffrey Watts, 11, pose in the big snowflake at the Winter Royalty Dance "the Snow ball," while being photobombed by Wade Joyce, 10.

4. Senior Scotti Twombly shows her funky dance style at the dance after the home game.

5. Kimble Trainer, 9, and Ian Grandall, 11, do the "fishing-catch" dance move while bystanders laugh.

6. Seniors Meghan Larson and Madison Smith show how they can be rednecks while dressing up for the week.

7. History teacher Bailey Lanter poses with Jaime Albers, 9, since Jaime was the only freshman who dressed up for colors of the rainbow day.

8. Allen Dorrell, 12, jumps on a snowboard while he poses for a candidate photo that was cut out to be used in the program.

A new style of drama was brought to the DWHS stage with the black light production "ONYX." The play was performed on April 10, 12, and 13.

The play was a visual delight with the focus being the costumes of white and bright neon colors contrasted with a pitch black stage. The black lighting enhanced the colors and the performers' exaggerated movements.

Short individual scenes of dancing, comedy, and melodrama including puppets, chub suits, vegetable "users," and skeletons allowed the versatile group of performers to take part in several scenes. Some of the scenes were original pieces crafted by the students themselves, while others were adapted pieces. The production was directed by Stanley Thornton.

After the meal, the vote for queen and king went to Brielle Clary, 12, and Tynan Bollinger, 11.

The "Great Gatsby: All that Jazz" theme provided an evening of prom extravagance.

True to the 1920s and 30s, a 1928 Ford Model T car, courtesy of Don and Beverly Kentzler was used as a photo prop at the home of Nolan and Beryl Blevins.

The prom continued as couples were introduced at prom walk-in, then proceeded to be seated with friends in the gym.

After dinner, the servers did their best Charleston moves, followed by a Charleston dance performance given by teacher Marla Taylor.

Before the dance, Brielle Clary, 12, and Tynan Bollinger, 11, were crowned king and queen. "I'll always remember how shocked yet how happy I felt winning Prom queen," Clary said.

For the dance, the songs included the Bernie, Footloose, the Cotton Eyed Joe, and country slow dances. Mixed into these favorites was a game of limbo.

Freshman Trevor Taylor, who went with senior Meghan Larson to prom, concluded his favorite time of the evening to be at after prom. "Riding the mechanical bull and the other games were my favorite," he said.

Taking pictures at the photo booth, the sumo wrestling suits, as well as volleyball and basketball were other favorites of the evening.

1. In a beautiful dark blue, Allen Dorrell, 12, and his date, Cori Fottori, 10, stop for photos as they walk in to the dance.

2. Good friends Allen Dorrell, 12, Brandon Caudle, 11, Luke Rush, 12, Ian Bollinger, 12, and Adam Wilmes, 12, take a photo together on the steps at the Nolan Blevins home.

For senior trip, the seniors went to Colorado to get high—in altitude that is. They headed for Breckenridge in the early hours of May 9. They stayed at an enormous house with a pool table, hot tub, movie theater, foosball table, and room enough for everyone.

Their planned activities were hiking, white water rafting, zip lining, shopping, climbing a rock wall, completing a challenge course, and visiting a trampoline park.

The rafting trip turned out to be quite memorable. They wore wetsuits to brave the frigid Colorado River, 30 degree temps, sleet, and a 15 mile float. Some seniors made the best of the situation with splashing and laughter, while others were thankful to see it end.

“My favorite thing we did was raft. It was cold but also a lot of fun,” said senior sponsor Bethany Cluck.

“The trip was fabulous,” said senior sponsor Bailey Lanter. “The seniors had many new and enjoyable experiences.”

Class of 2014 graduates

Luke Rush

Jessica Neibling

Scotti Twombly

Macee Scott

The 22 seniors happily received diplomas and many congratulations at graduation on Saturday, May 17.

Jessica Neibling gave a welcome, followed by Kim Elliott singing "Whenever You Remember."

Luke Rush, salutatorian, shared how the class has grown and matured over the years, and they have shared many memories.

Valedictorian Scotti Twombly used the rafting experience from senior trip as a lesson of encouragement: When faced with adversity, she hopes they prosper rather than cave in or simply manage to tolerate it.

The next part of the ceremony was the seniors' emotional recognition of parents with carnations and the slide show of childhood photos.

Lastly, the graduates received their diplomas and closing comments were shared by Brielle Clary before the graduates exited for the receiving line—and the next chapter of their lives.

Samantha Albers and Ian Bollinger lead the seniors into the gym to the traditional "Pomp and Circumstance."

1. Brielle Clary and her dad, Grant, get a photo together during the flower ceremony.

3. Abbi Ellis and Megan Green enter the gym in front of the standing audience and flashing cameras.

5. Kim Elliott sings the Carrie Underwood song "Whenever You Remember," which includes the lyrics: "When you think back on all we've done I hope you're proud. When you look back and see how far we've come it was our time to shine, And nobody could hold us down. They thought they'd see us fall But we, we stood so tall And no we won't forget."

6. The back row of the seniors listens to the introductory remarks given by principal Chris Lackey.

7. Liz Courtin and Kyleigh Edie are all smiles on this big day, posing for photos with friends in the commons area before graduation.

8. Trevor Fee happily stops for photos after receiving his diploma.

Dear Seniors,

In all of our years together as classmates, you always found me with a camera in hand, just perfectly positioned to capture your worst moments. I know you all probably want to kill me, but I always knew keeping these terribly attractive pictures of our prime would come in handy someday. Even though I have many many pictures of us when we were blooming into the lovely people we are today, I dug up even more. Some of the pictures may scar you for life, but I hope that they also trigger the memories we had growing up--from popsicle smiles to our terrible middle school trends to first day of freshman year, and our last days as seniors. Our class is like a big family. We've suffered through tough times, and we've celebrated the good times, too. Now it's time to walk out these doors together for the last time and go our separate ways. It just seems unreal to me. I feel like we were in middle school yesterday. We have flown through these years just dying to be done, and now that it's time to say good-bye, I just don't want to let go yet, but I know that although we might miss our D-West days a little, we're about to close this chapter of our lives, and open a completely new one. When you look at these pictures, I hope it takes you back and gives you something to hold on to, and remind you to remember that even though we have closed this chapter, we can always look back and see that we all came from the same place, made memories that we'll carry forever, and that we left our mark here. I hope that as we go out into the world we can find our purpose.

Congratulations, Class of 2014. We finally made it. I wish the best for all of you. Stay Golden.

LOVE, Kyleigh

Dear Ky,
 I can't believe you've made it. It seems like it was just yesterday that we were little kids, dancing around the living room and licking each other's faces like best friends. We've had our ups and downs and you've drove me insane a few times, but deep down I know we are still best friends. You've taught me that everyone has feelings, and everyone has a reason for the way that they act. I'm going to miss you terribly, so keep in touch with me when you head off to college. Be careful and pay attention to your surroundings when you're there. Thanks for believing in me and caring for me. I love you more than you can imagine.
 Your brother, Joey

While on this ride called "life," you have to take the good with the bad, smile when you're sad, love what you've got and remember what you had. Always forgive, but never forget.
Learn from your mistakes, but never regret. People change. Things go wrong. Just remember,
the ride goes on...
We love you,

If you're trying to achieve, there will be roadblocks. I've had them. Everybody has had them. But obstacles don't have to stop you. If you run into a wall, don't turn around and give up. Figure out how to climb it, go through it or work around it.
 -And give all the glory to God-
 We love you.
 Mom, Dad, & Marc

Dear Jessica,
 You are a wonderful blessing from God! We have enjoyed watching you grow and learn. It will be exciting to see where God leads you as His plan for your life unfolds. Remember these words of wisdom from the Bible: "Joyful are people of integrity, who follow the instructions of the Lord." Psalm 119:1, and "Don't be concerned about the outward beauty of fancy hairstyles, expensive jewelry, or beautiful clothes. You should clothe yourself instead with the beauty that comes from within, the unfading beauty of a gentle and quiet spirit, which is so precious to God." 1 Peter 3:3-4

POP CULTURE

This Trend is a Hoot
The wise, wide-eyed owl is popping up everywhere as a whimsical motif in jewelry and accessories.

Zombies Invade Pop Culture

Zombies walk and feed among the living in hit movies, popular television shows, and trendy costume parties.

Tris Trumps Katniss

Amazon.com announces that pre-orders for Allegiant, the final book in the Divergent trilogy by Veronica Roth, are outselling the final book in the Hunger Games trilogy.

Smooth Move

Kids take over the family blender to make quick, healthy fruit and veggie smoothies for breakfast or afternoon snacks.

Pocket Fuel

Busy kids get fast, balanced nutrition on-the-go with Hormel's new REY® Wraps, high-protein snacks made with meats and cheeses.

New Hair Hues

Hairstylists report that their customers, male and female, are asking for ombre hair color that starts dark at the roots and becomes gradually lighter toward the ends.

Nutritious Candy

The Gatorade® brand introduces G Endurance® Carb Energy Chews, a sweet treat that contains carbohydrates and B vitamins for athletes.

A New Twist

Pretzels are the latest fad food. Fast food restaurants introduce new sandwiches on pretzel buns. Pretzel-based snack foods soar in popularity.

Better With Bacon

It's not just for breakfast anymore. Trendy restaurant chefs and home cooks add bacon to everything from appetizers to desserts.

Keep Calm and Be Silly

"Keep Calm and Carry On," a British slogan from World War II, inspires parodies like "Keep Calm and Have a Cupcake."
