THS Dreams About Future

Webster defines the word "dream" as a "fond hope." However, with effort and determination many of these fond hopes may become realities.

High school is a place where many dreams are formed, prepared for, and sometimes even fulfilled. Along the way, many find that they have made friendships and built memories to last a lifetime.

TROJAN '82 is a chronicle of the dreams of those in and around THS: dreams fulfilled, dreams never quite reached, and dreams still in the future.

Year's News Mixed

In an age when the news stressed the most was bad news, the period from September, 1981, to May, 1982, was no exception.

The world was shocked October 6, when the Egyptian President Anwar Sadat was brutally gunned down during a military parade. This man had been a critical force in establishing relatively peaceful relations between Egypt and Israel.

A labor group called Solidarity for a time seemed to be winning concessions from the Soviet-aligned Polish government. However, when the group pushed for too many freedoms, the government took action. December 12, martial law was declared in Poland, the activities of Solidarity were halted, and the leader of Solidarity imprisoned.

January was a dangerous month to travel by airplane. January 13, 78 people died when a Boeing 737 crashed into a Washington, D.C. bridge. One of the passengers showed the world that heroes still existed in such a way to bring tears to the hardest heart. The unknown man refused a lifeline so five other people could be saved first, then was too exhausted to hold on until the lifeline returned for him. He was lost in the icy waters of the Potomac.

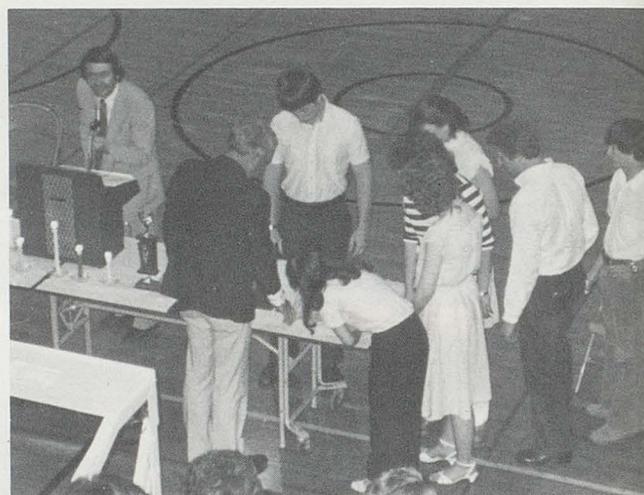

Another air disaster occurred January 18. Four pilots of the famous Air Force Thunderbirds met their deaths while practicing precision maneuvers.

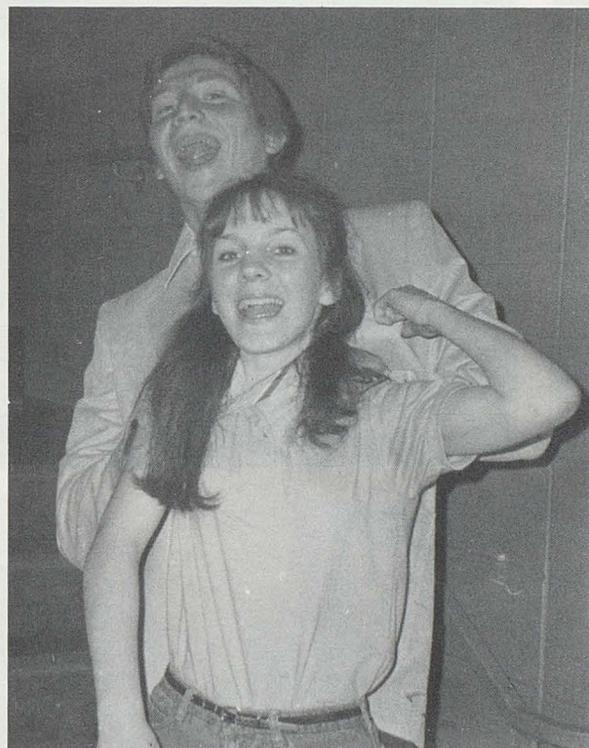

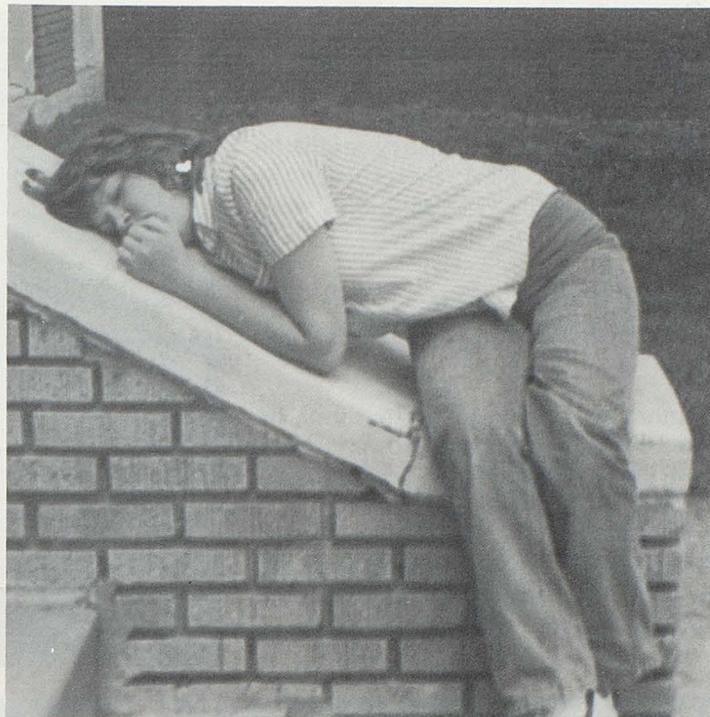

One more major accident occurred January 23 in Boston, when a DC-10 skidded off the end of a runway and into Boston harbor. Incredibly, all 208 people aboard survived.

Some good news was heard periodically, as on March 10, when all nine planets aligned on one side of the sun. Some said that this event would precipitate the end of the world. The good news was that the big date came and went, but the world remained.

As the school year ended, the world situation was again tense. The trouble spot was the Falkland Islands, near Argentina. Both Britain and Argentina claimed the islands. As of May 20, negotiations were breaking down, the countries were taking military action against each other, and the situation was unresolved.

The uncertain state of affairs did not stop the Trojans from enjoying their free time.

Video games were something of a phenomenon in their popularity. Pac-man was the leading game. The game even had a popular song written about it.

On the music scene, females often dominated the picture. Olivia Newton-John enjoyed a renewed popularity. Groups with female lead singers, such as Quarterflash and Joan Jett and the Blackhearts, accounted for several hit songs. One all-female group, the Go-gos, had some successful songs. Other popular groups were the Rolling Stones, Van Halen, Foreigner, Loverboy, and AC-DC.

Fantasy and adventure were unusually popular at the movie theaters. Such pictures as Quest for Fire, The Sword and the Sorcerer, and Conan the Barbarian illustrated this new trend.

In a period of uncertainty young people still worked hard, played hard, and planned for the future, as they will as long as there is a future to plan for.

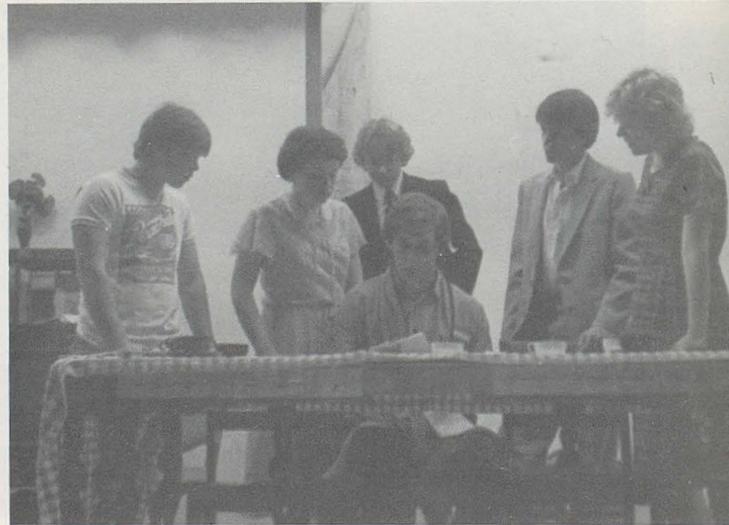

Activities formed the stuff that dreams were made of for many students.

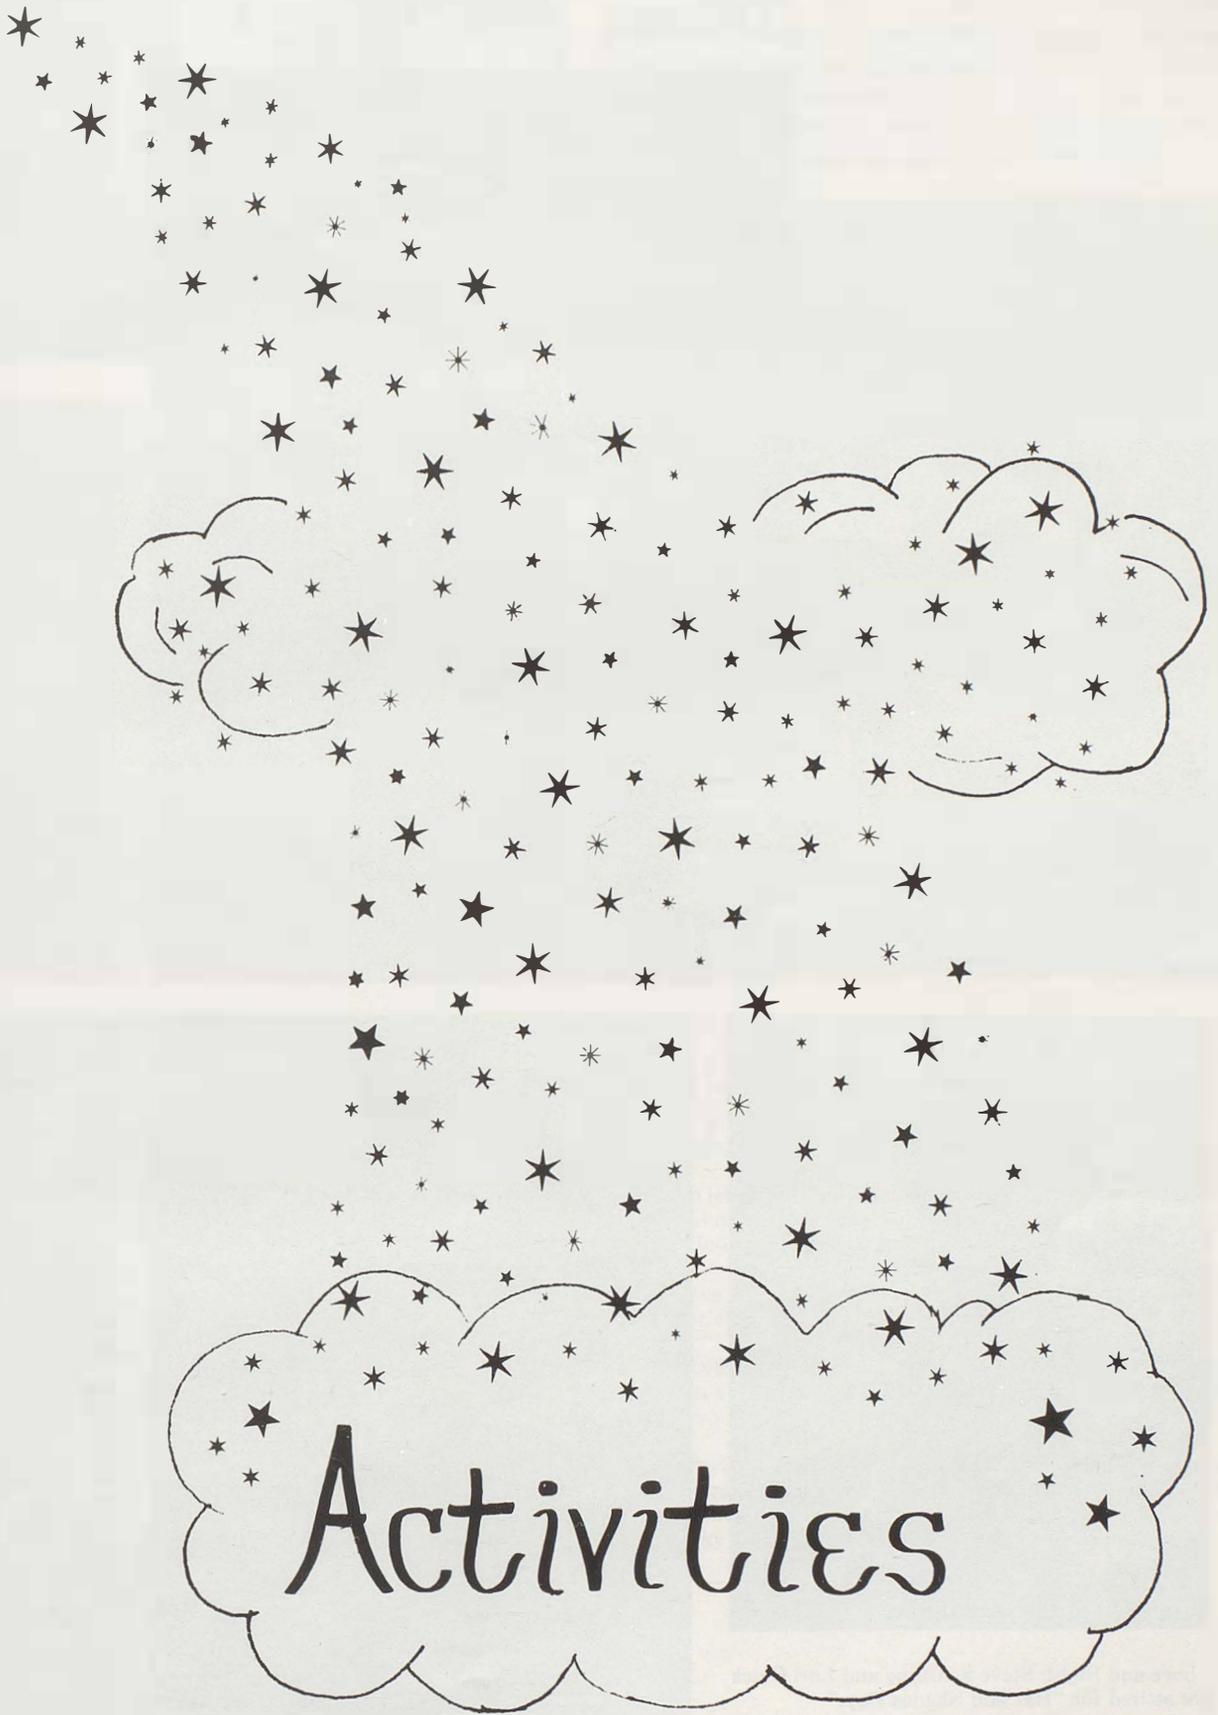

Many young ladies fondly hoped that they might be chosen Homecoming Queen, FFA Sweetheart, or Queen-of-Courts. For a lucky few, these hopes were realized.

In forensics, actors and speakers performed and competed, some perhaps dreaming of a future dramatic career.

What event was more looked forward to than the junior-senior prom? Studies sometimes took a back seat to thoughts of that "dreamy" girl or guy.

Finally, graduation was the highlight of many high school careers. Some just dreamed of graduating; the dreams of others were just beginning. Thoughts of college, career, or other future pursuits filled many young minds.

Cast Performs

How can a girl who comes from a family whose members write plays, manufacture fireworks, attend commencements, and dance ballet, fall in love with a boy from a Wall-Street-oriented family? These questions and many others were answered in the play "You Can't Take It with You," performed November 19 and 20.

Sweetheart Crowned

After competing in nine assorted agricultural activities, Lisa Anderson was chosen FFA Sweetheart, Bev Meng was chosen first runner-up, and Linda Briggs was chosen second runner-up in the annual FFA Barnwarming activities, November 18.

The other girls vying for the title were Becky Winkle, Mary Middleton, Connie Johnson, and Debbie Lara. All the girls had to perform such tasks as squaring a board, milking a goat, catching a greased pig, and lassoing a trash can. The ladies were also interviewed and each wrote an essay on "Why I Want to be FFA Sweetheart."

Royalty Chosen

John Michael Simpson crowned Michelle Foley the 1982 Queen of Courts, February 5, at halftime of the boys' A-team game with Jackson Heights.

Michelle's attendants were Kris Bletscher, Becky King, Sheila Adkins, and Debbie Masters. Their escorts were Cully Clary, James Marriott, Chris Beaty, and Marty Clary.

Michelle received her crown, sash and a bouquet of roses.

The theme, "Just Between You and Me," set the mood for the dance. The band "Astre" provided the entertainment.

Speakers Perform Throughout Year

Despite a year of unpredictable weather, a flu epidemic, and a two-hour delay on the trip home from state speech contest because of a flat tire, the 22 members of the forensics team showed their true colors as they excelled in six contests this year.

The forensics year consisted of four regular contests, the regional contest, and the state contest. The qualifying requirements for the State festival were a I rating and a 1st, 2nd, or 3rd place medal at any medal meet or a I rating at regionals. Nine students and the one-act play cast and crew qualified in five events.

The team was coached by Mrs. Martha-Jean Rockey.

Tradition Continued

"Last Chance" was the theme for the junior-senior prom, April 24, 1982.

The banquet was at the American Legion Hall, at 6:30 P.M. The meal for the banquet was prepared by the junior class mothers, and served by sophomores selected by the junior class. Those chosen were Greg Ashworth, Jill Jarrett, Laurie Klaus, John Michael Marriott, Kenny Neumann, Laralee Sandy, Ronnie Shelton, and Julia Simpson.

Everyone was full of laughter when the speaker, Mr. Donald Harter, told jokes about the junior and senior classes.

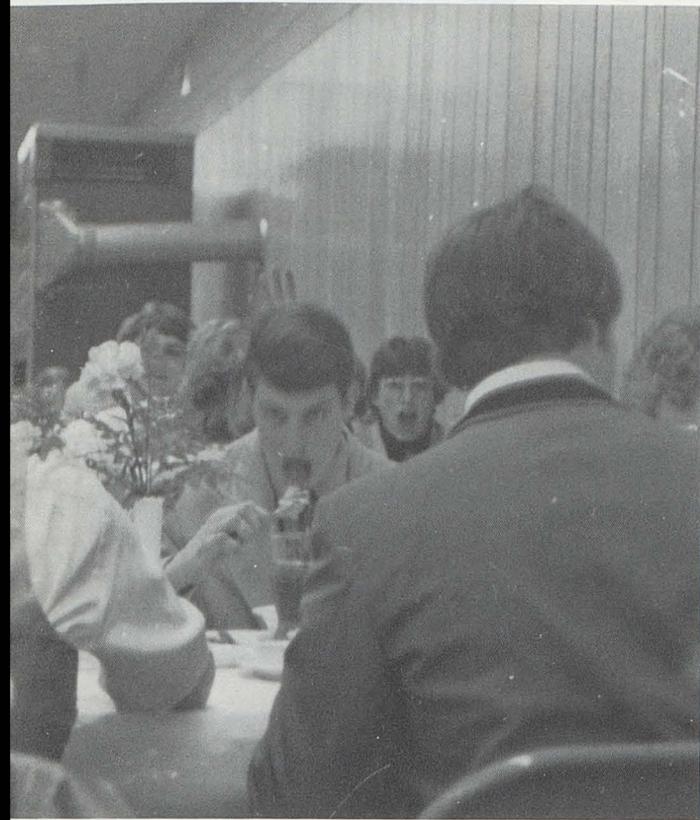

"The Deans" provided the music for the dance. It was in the old gym after the banquet.

There are dreams of money, dreams of success, dreams of love, and many others. Dreams vary greatly, yet all have one thing in common. They are made by people.

Behind every face at THS was a dream. Most students dreamed of the future. By helping students to prepare for the future, many faculty members fulfilled their own dreams.

The efforts of all the people involved with the school made it what it was: a place where many dreams were formed and a few were attained.

The first year of high school can be a very frightening and exciting one. When the students walked up those front steps for the first time, they left a part of their lives behind and began another.

The freshman class again sold merchandise, ranging from toys to household goods, from the Tom-Wat Show-Case.

Class Advances

The second year of high school is easier than the first, because the student is acquainted with the school and its routine. Yet, new challenges such as collecting plants for biology, and preparing food in Mrs. Goss's home ec class, present themselves.

The sophomore class held many money-making projects, which included selling posters, t-shirts, and key rings.

Funds Raised

Much of the juniors' interest was focused on raising money for the Junior-Senior Prom and spending money on class rings.

The class sold Nasco soap as a new method of raising money for prom. Also, under the supervision of Mrs. Goss, they were in charge of the concession stand during the football and basketball seasons.

In October the juniors ordered their class rings from Balfour or Jostens. This was the first time that a class ordered from two different companies.

Seniors Go East

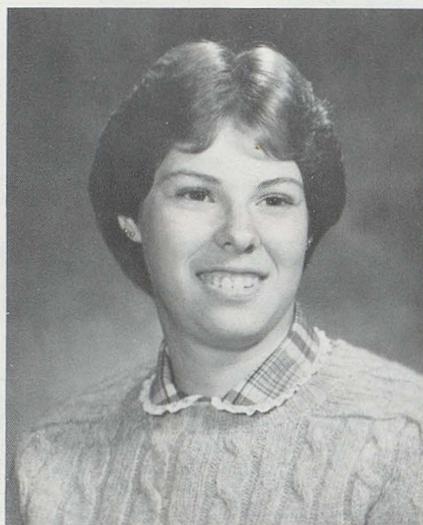

Six Flags Over Mid-America was the destination of the '82 seniors. They left April 29 and arrived in St. Louis on the 30. They toured the Anheuser Busch Brewery, the Gateway Arch, the Westward Expansion Museum, and the St. Louis Zoo. The class also saw the Clydesdale horses; a pool party at the Holiday Inn and a meal on the floating McDonald's Restaurant were two more of the activities enjoyed by the seniors before they returned to Troy, May 2. Money-making projects included magazine sales, a skating party, and a cake sale.

The efforts of eleven returning teachers helped make school a rewarding experience.

Mr. Bill Foster was a native Trojan, and enjoyed running, canoeing, fishing, and hunting. Washington D.C. was the birthplace of Mr. Dale Whiteside, who found farming and railroads interesting.

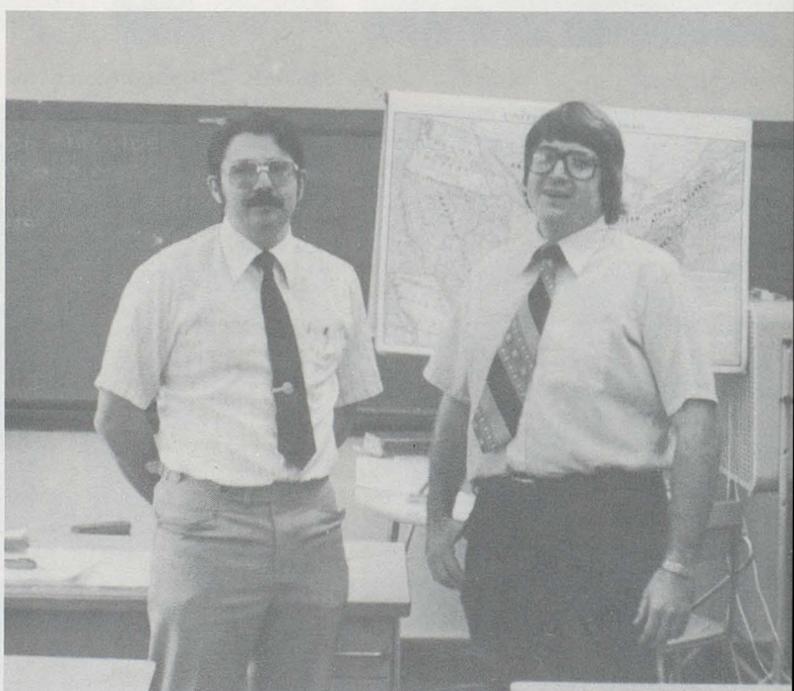

Mrs. Anna Goss hailed from Culver, Kansas, and listed her hobbies as cooking, sewing, and gardening. The counselor, Mr. Severt Anderson, was originally from Clay Center, Kansas. Golf, sports, and yard work were among his interests.

Another native Trojan was Mr. Lyle Rockey, Jr., who enjoyed participating in sports, reading, and landscaping in his free time.

Teachers Tell About Hobbies

Mr. Frank Davis, a Highlander, hunted, played tennis, and enjoyed all outdoor activities.

Mr. Art Buhl was from Las Cruces, New Mexico, and liked camping, fishing, and bow hunting. He was also a member of the National Guard.

Mr. Fred Folsche of Troy listed boating, water skiing, and building and operating radio-control models among his many hobbies.

Ottawa, Kansas, was the hometown of Mr. Bruce Reynolds, who built model ships and was a devoted sports fan.

Troy was the hometown of Mrs. Martha Rockey, whose interests included music, plants, and her pets.

Mrs. Babetta Israel, from Grand Island, Nebraska, enjoyed the outdoors, and leisure time with her husband and daughter.

New Faces Enrich Staff

The qualifications and interests of the four new faculty members varied from a recent college graduate interested in coaching, to an experienced teacher interested in carpentry.

The new math teacher was Miss Debra Fitch. She attended Kansas City, Kansas Community College for two years, then transferred to Pittsburg State University, where she received a Bachelor of Science in Education Degree, specializing in physical education and mathematics.

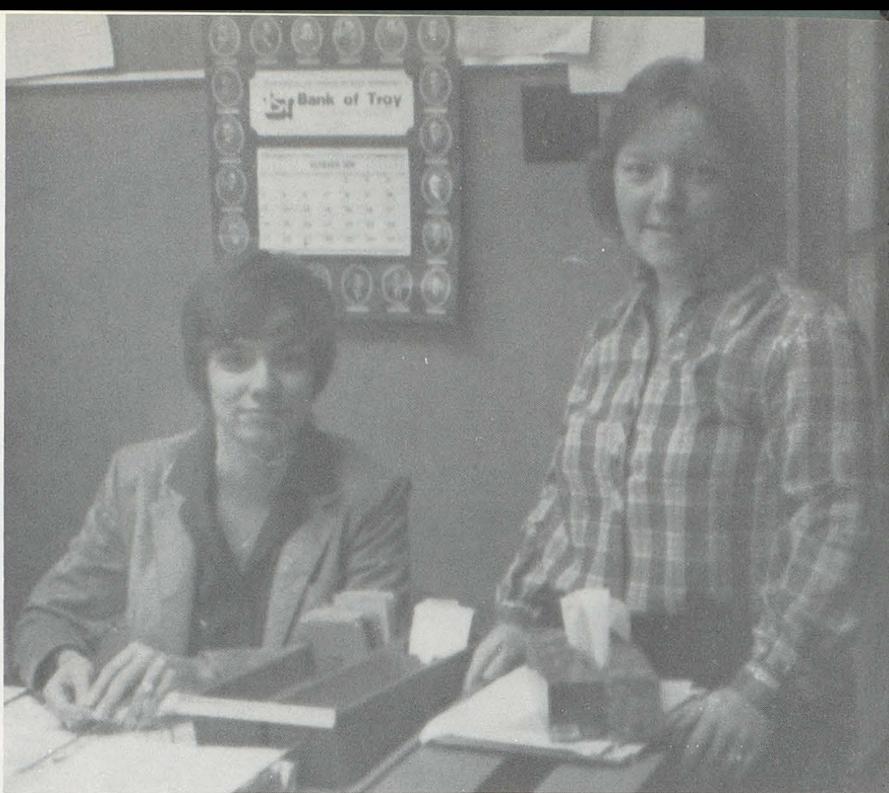

Miss Fitch was the junior class sponsor and assistant pep club sponsor. Her hobbies were sewing, photography and coaching sports.

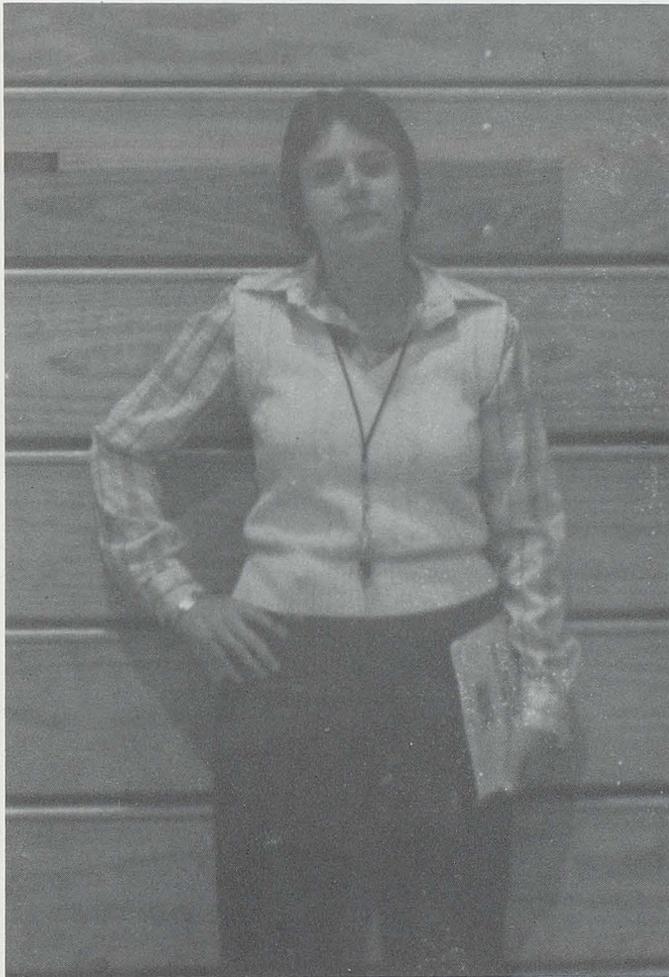

Miss Denise Roebkes was the new librarian and library aid adviser. Miss Roebkes was from Mound City, Missouri. She attended Northeast Missouri State University at Maryville, Missouri, receiving a Bachelor of Science Degree in elementary education with a minor in library science.

She was also the pep club and cheerleading sponsor. Her hobbies were reading, fishing, and playing volleyball.

Right: Mr. Dreher prepares to play the trumpet for his class.

Mr. Robert Dreher, the band and chorus teacher, came from St. Joseph, Missouri. He attended Northwest Missouri State University, University of Iowa, University of Indiana, and Morning Side College. Mr. Dreher received a Bachelor of Arts in elementary and secondary education. His hobbies were carpentry and photography.

Miss Amy Decker was the new physical education and health teacher. Her home town was Lawson, Missouri. She attended Missouri Western and received a Bachelor of Science degree in physical education.

Miss Decker was the sponsor of the sophomore class, volleyball coach, assistant basketball and track coach, and drivers' education teacher. Her hobbies were reading, watching and playing sports, embroidering, running, and horseback riding.

Principal Sets Goal

Many changes occurred in administration in the form of new offices and new leaders to guide students through their school days.

The new principal was Mr. Steven Johnston. Mr. Johnston had taught instrumental music for four years before deciding that he wanted to be on a "one-to-one" basis with all students.

The principal's goal for his first year was to see students have the initiative to make rules and follow them.

Mr. Johnston's family consisted of his wife Pam, and sons Shannon and Steven Jr. His hobbies included electronic kit-building, playing baseball, and watching football.

Office Remodeled

The need for more room forced Superintendent Kenneth Pharr to move his office to a trailer behind the grade school. The trailer had been vacated by the special education class and was carpeted and paneled, and received two new windows before it became the superintendent's office, July 1, 1981.

The new office was also used for meetings of the school board, which gained Mr. Hylen Rush and Mr. Bill Koehler as members in 1981.

Staff Work Varies

Some school employees performed duties that were important, but too often taken for granted.

Picking up the children each morning and taking them home each evening weren't the only jobs of the bus drivers. They drove the buses for ball games and other school activities away from home. They had to keep order on the bus and keep the bus clean. Extra drivers drove activity buses which took students home who were out for sports.

Right: Chloe Winder cleans up after lunch.

Chloe Winder, Carol Christenson, and Head Cook Ella Koehler were the cooks at the beginning of the year. Carol had a stroke in January, and Shirley Buessing filled in as temporary help. In March a new rule was passed by the school board that said: "There is to be no smoking in the building." The cooks walked out. The grade school cook, Anna Marie Winkel, and some of the mothers of students filled in. Later, Carol Christenson returned from her illness, and Chloe Winder came back to work. Margaret Sutton was then hired as the new head cook.

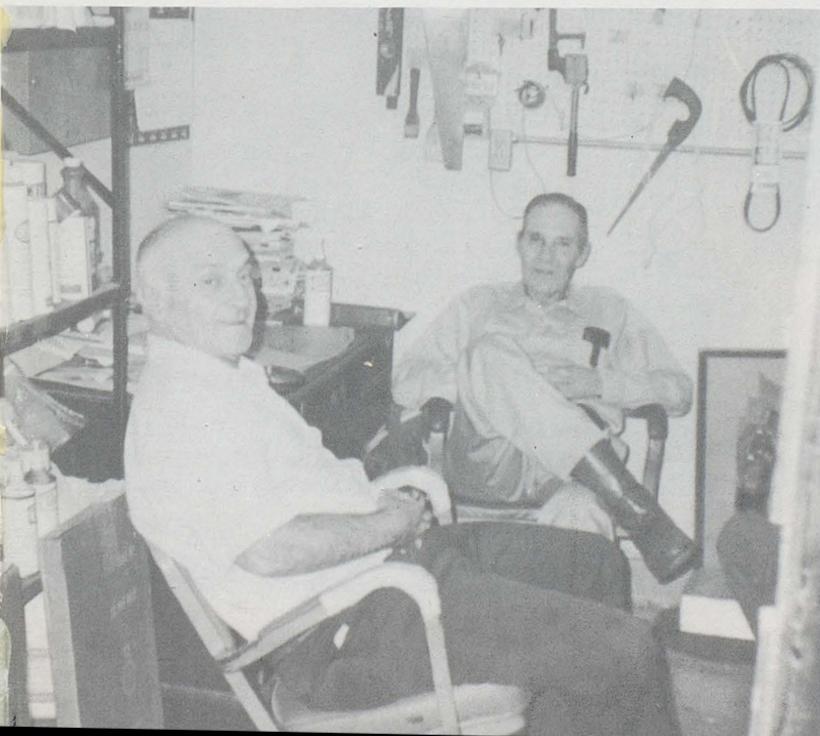

The custodians had to get to school early in the morning and stay later than anyone. They attended all school activities and cleaned up after they were over.

Julia Wins Page

Win-a-page, the special page where one student is profiled, entered its third year. The student who received this honor was Julia Simpson.

Julia, a sophomore at THS, enjoyed studying about plant and animal life in biology. The class will be a big help to Julia later on when she goes to college and pursues a career in medicine, as either a nurse or doctor.

In her spare time, Julia enjoyed swimming, cooking and reading. Dynasty, the story of Blake Carrington and his family, was Julia's favorite television program. At the theater, On Golden Pond, the story of life, love, and growing old, was the movie she most enjoyed. REO and Journey were at the top of her musical list, as well as the haunting theme from Chariots of Fire. When Julia thinks food, her thoughts turn to sunny Mexico and its spicy dishes.

Legion Hosts Boys' Staters, Girls' Staters, Cadet Lawman

For one week every June, certain young men and women may learn about the United States government and how it works.

The 1981 Boys' and Girls' State delegates were Jeff Clary, Dean Weber, Debbie Masters, Geri Fenley, and Sheila Adkins. The program is held at Kansas University in Lawrence.

Left: Boys' State delegates Jeff Clary and Dean Weber; Cadette Lawman Tim Franken; and Girls' State delegates Sheila Adkins, Geri Fenley, and Debbie Masters, gather in front of the Indian monument.

Tim Franken represented Troy at Cadette Lawman camp May 30-June 6, 1981, at Salina, Kansas. Sponsored by the American Legion, the camp is designed to acquaint young men with the duties of the highway patrol. CPR, self-defense, and checking the radar on an airplane were among the many things taught.

Left: Tim reflects on his highway patrol experiences. "All in all, it was a very fun experience," said Tim.

Financial and career success is sometimes considered the "American Dream." As the world of work continued to become increasingly complex, academic success became more and more important. The addition of a basic computer class emphasized the inevitable increase in education in scientific and technological fields.

Many students, with an eye to the future, put forth the effort to excel in their scholastic endeavors. The various academic competitions attended by students offered them a chance to display their talents.

Awards Night was the highlight of the academic year. Many students were recognized for their achievements. However, the value of this recognition was small compared to the value of the preparation for later life gained by the students through their academic pursuits.

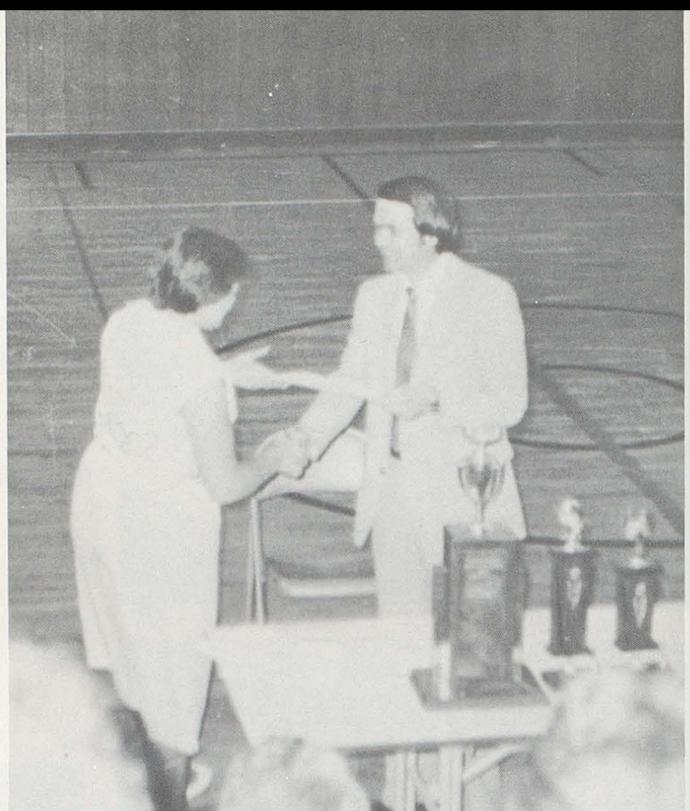

Academics

Awards Presented To Those Deserving

At the Awards Night ceremony, May 12, students lettering in speech were given their awards, with three students double lettering, Jeff Clary, Jeff Barnthson, and Geri Fenley. Jeff Clary received an award for being the senior with the most points for four years. Geri Fenley and Jeff Clary tied for having the most points this school year.

Journalism students received pins or bars, with Sheila Adkins receiving a special pin for extra service as business manager. New members for Quill and Scroll were Sheila Adkins, Kris Bletscher, Cheryl Begesse, Mary Middleton, Michelle Foley, and Geri Fenley.

The cheerleaders were given recognition with awards. Those in pep club also received awards.

Band and chorus members were given certificates for their participation. The annual Sousa Award went to Jeff Barnthson.

In the State of Kansas Scholarship Contest Troy received third place in the 2a State Division based on the scores on the tests. In the state Deanna Winzer and Paula Moore were awarded honorable mention in English 9. Bev Meng and Cheryl Begesse received honorable mention in Literature 11. Cheryl also won honorable mention in Spelling 11 and history. Placing third in Literature 12 and Spelling 12 and first in English 12 was Jeff Clary. He also received honorable mention in physics. Mary Middleton was awarded honorable mention in history. Jeff Barnthson received honorable mention in Literature 12 and Spelling 12.

The Dean of the School of Engineering recognized Jeff Clary with an award for being the outstanding Troy student in mathematics and science.

Michelle Foley received the Elks Scholarship at Highland. Jeff Barnthson won a music scholarship to Highland. Jeff Clary was awarded the Kansas University Summerfield Scholarship. Geri Fenley was given the Creative and Performing Arts Scholarship for the academic year from Kansas University. The state scholars were Jeff Clary, Tim Franken, and Dean Weber. The citizenship awards were given to Debbie Masters and Steve Tharman.

The American Legion achievement awards were given to Michelle Foley, Debbie Masters, and Tim Franken with Jeff Clary receiving honorable mention.

Groups Improve

The Troy High School chorus and band gained a new instructor, Mr. Robert Dreher, and a new piano accompanist, Mrs. Martha Rockey. The band and chorus performed in the Christmas program, attended the league competition at Benedictine College, and entertained at the Spring Concert.

A mixed quartet was selected by Mr. Dreher. The quartet consisted of Chris Beaty, Brenda Boeh, Linda Briggs, and Bryan Gaither. They performed in the Christmas program and entertained at the Methodist Church for the Methodist Men's Brotherhood.

Mr. Dreher's goal for the band was to "turn a small band into a great sounding band." The marching band was transformed into a stage band.

Mr. Dreher's varied musical experiences included other teaching positions and ownership of a music store.

Squad Gains Sponsor

The pom pon squad was sponsored by Miss Decker, instead of the music director as in past years.

The members of the squad performed at most of the home games and pep rallies. Jogging suits were the uniforms for one of their routines.

Students Study Sciences

Miss Debra Fitch and Mr. Bruce Reynolds made up the math staff.

Miss Fitch taught Algebra I and II, geometry, and general math.

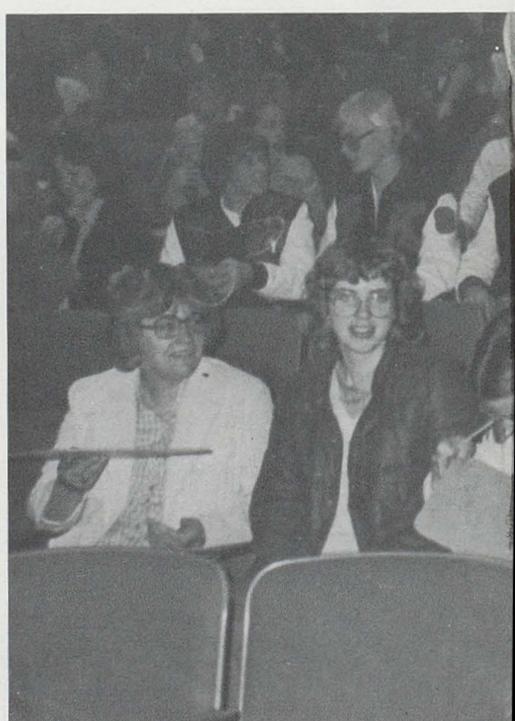

Mr. Reynolds instructed business math.

An important event during the year was the Math-Science Day at Highland Community College.

Students Keep Fit

Miss Amy Decker taught freshman girls' P.E. and health. In P.E. the girls played soccer, tennis, volleyball, and other sports. One of the topics that the health class studied was diseases.

Freshman boys' P.E. and advanced P.E. were instructed by Mr. Frank Davis. The activities included climbing the rope and playing soccer and volleyball.

Societies Studied

Mr. Bruce Reynolds taught current events, government, business math, and psychology. The seniors participated in the annual County Government Day at the Doniphan County Courthouse. The class selected the participants in a mock election. The business math class was designed to prepare students for everyday math.

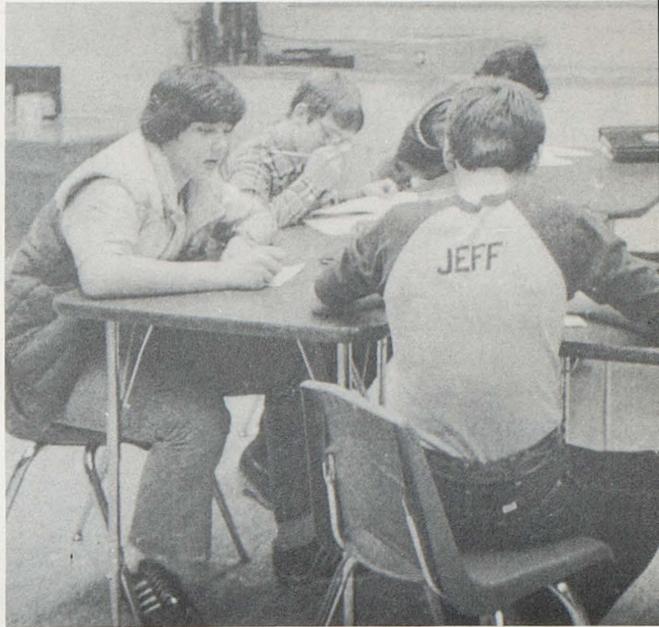

American History, world history, sociology, and geography were taught by Mr. Lyle Rockey, Jr. The sociology class studied such subjects as the democratic process and choosing a vocation. The class was designed to observe how humanity behaves in society. Geography offered a chance for many students to study the places they had dreamed of visiting.

Vocational Classes Taught Basics

There were forty-eight students in the four phases of industrial arts, taught by Mr. Fred Folsche. The class created various projects, such as flower boxes, a gun cabinet, book shelves, a desk, and an octagonal game table.

The industrial arts students also took on some outside school activities. They constructed a shed for the pole vault pit on the field, a waterbed frame, a cedar chest, and a sign for the First Baptist Church.

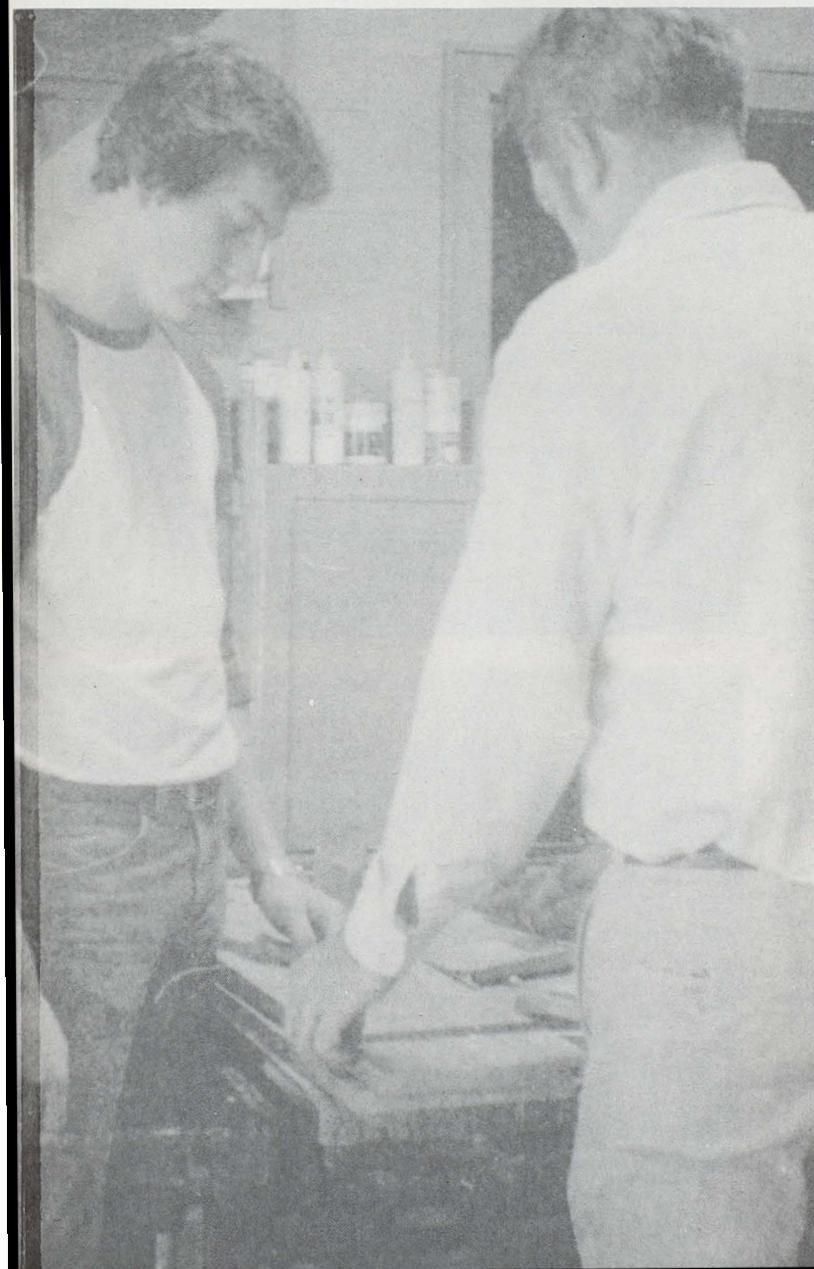

There were 30 students in Mr. Buhl's Vo-Ag classes and 40 members in the Future Farmers of America.

The class constructed a portable farrowing house, overhauled a John Deer "A" tractor, and built a shooting stand. Other projects included rabbit hutches and livestock gates.

Diversity Present

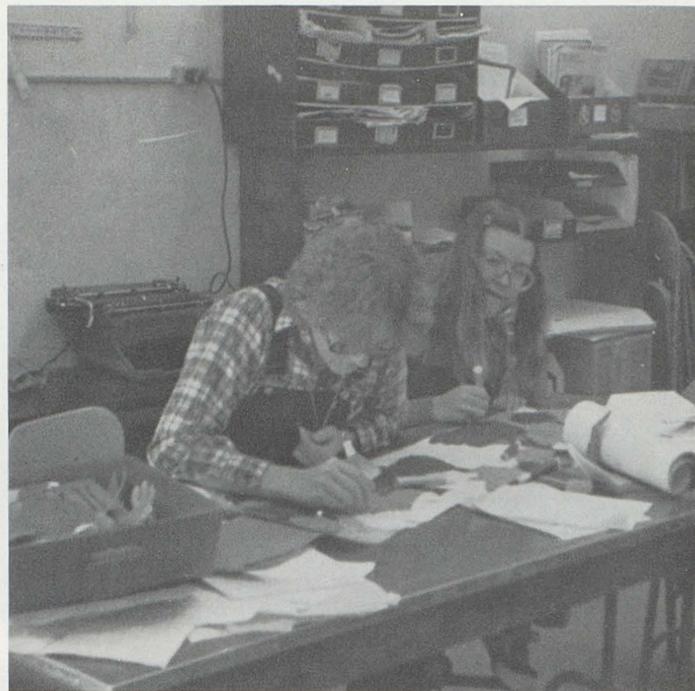

Mrs. Martha Rockey and Mrs. Babetta Israel taught the English courses offered. They were assisted by Student Teacher Joyce Rush.

The English department had a variety of courses for the students to take. Study skills, speech, grammar, and composition were required for the freshmen. Sophomores chose from literary exploration, short stories, mythology, creative writing, mysteries, advanced speech, newswriting, and grammar. Classes such as grammar, science fiction, westerns, research, oral interpretation, and American and English literature were picked by the juniors and the seniors.

"With two seconds to go, the half-court shot is . . . good! Few fields inspire as many dreams in young people as that of athletic endeavor.

Students may gain praise and recognition through sports. However, the fickle public will just as quickly lay blame on a player who "blows" the big play.

For some, excellence in sports may provide a means to obtain future security by supplying financial aid for college.

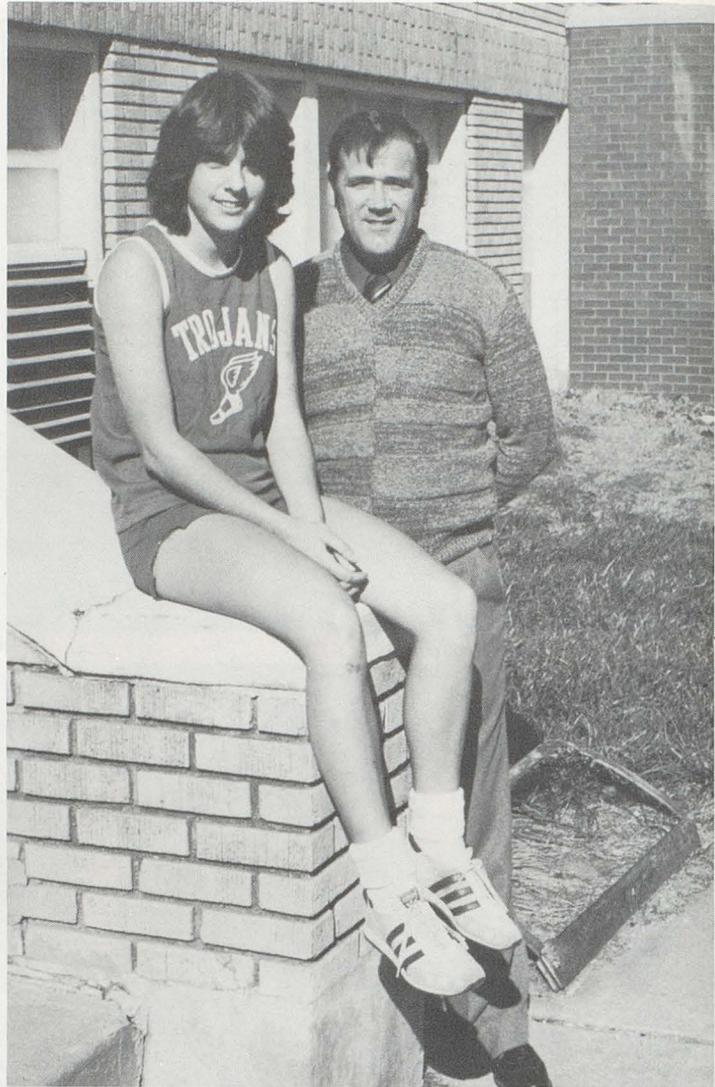

Whether in volleyball or football, basketball or track, Trojan athletes had the ambition to set high goals and the willingness to work and the persistence needed to meet their goals.

Tammy Is Team

Tammy Clary, running alone through the hills, broke the school cross-country record, with a time of 13:47, at Horton. Coach David Kuester, after working Tammy into form, saw the sophomore win two medals, while just missing the state-qualification pace of 13:35. The six meets Tammy competed in were at Highland, Savior of the World, Maur Hill, Centralia, and Horton (twice).

Trojans Win League

For the fourth year straight, the Trojan football team made it to the playoffs.

They didn't do as well this year as previous years. It seems they had stronger competition in the new Delaware Valley League.

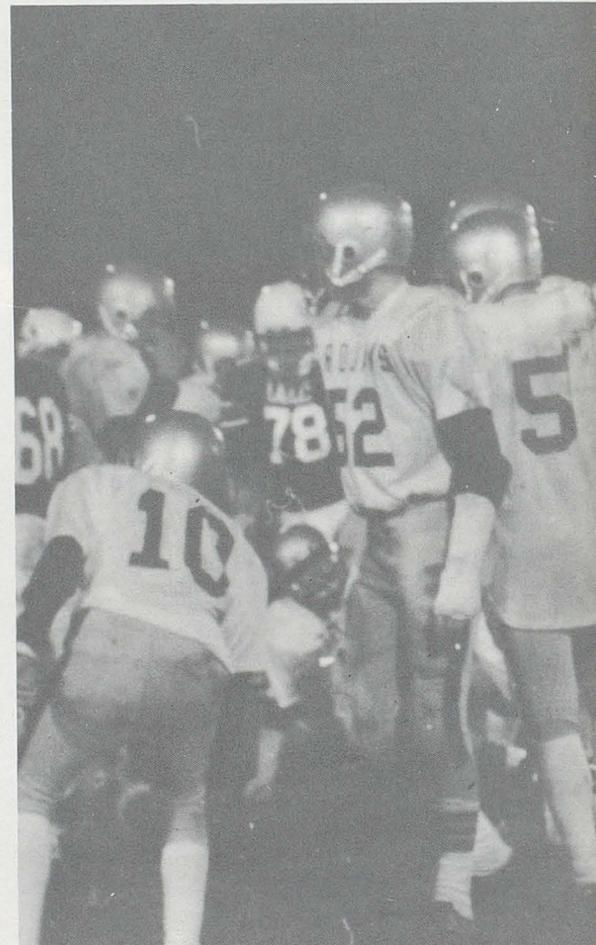

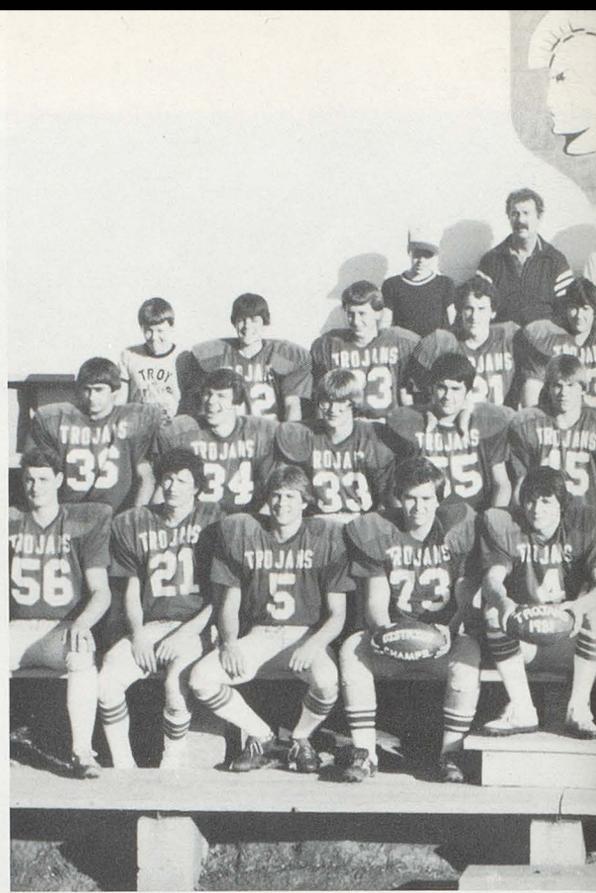

Troy won the league championship, in this new league, which consisted of seven schools: Troy, McLouth, Valley Falls, Wathena, Horton, Jackson Heights, and Jefferson County North.

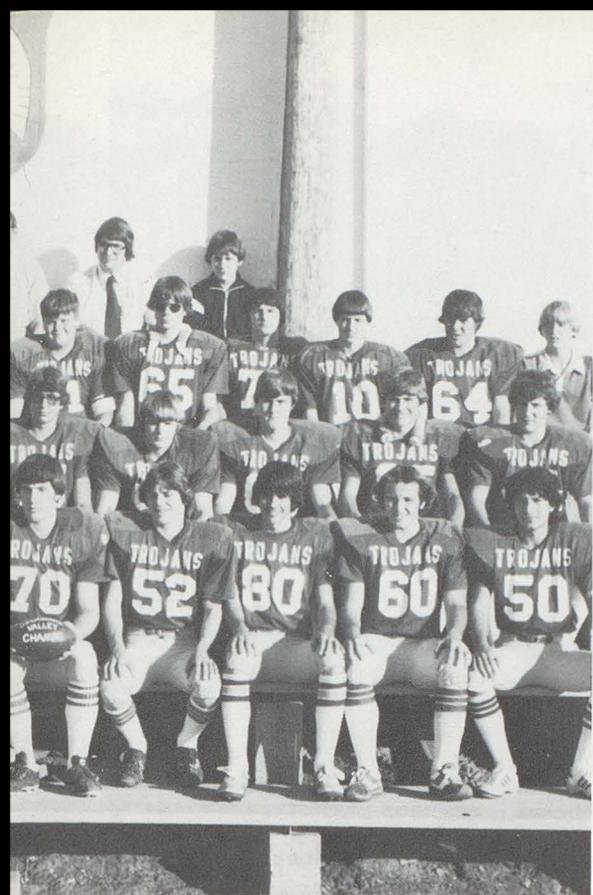

The Delaware Valley All-League players on offense were John Simpson, center; Jeff S. Clary, guard; Tim Franken, quarterback; and James Marriott, halfback. Defensive All-League players were Jeff S. Clary, lineman; Donnie Huss, linebacker; and Tim Franken, defensive back. Honorable mention players were Danny King, tackle, Doug Meng, fullback, offense; and John Simpson, end, defense.

Girls Capture Third

Capturing the third-place trophy at Highland's Invitational Tournament was the highlight of the girls' season. Although the girls' overall record wasn't perfect, they hustled well, and never quit playing. In his first year at Troy, Head Coach David Kuester developed a group that showed team spirit and played team ball. Kuester and Assistant Coach Amy Decker also saw senior Debbie Masters receive Honorable Mention on the All-League team.

Girls Improve Greatly

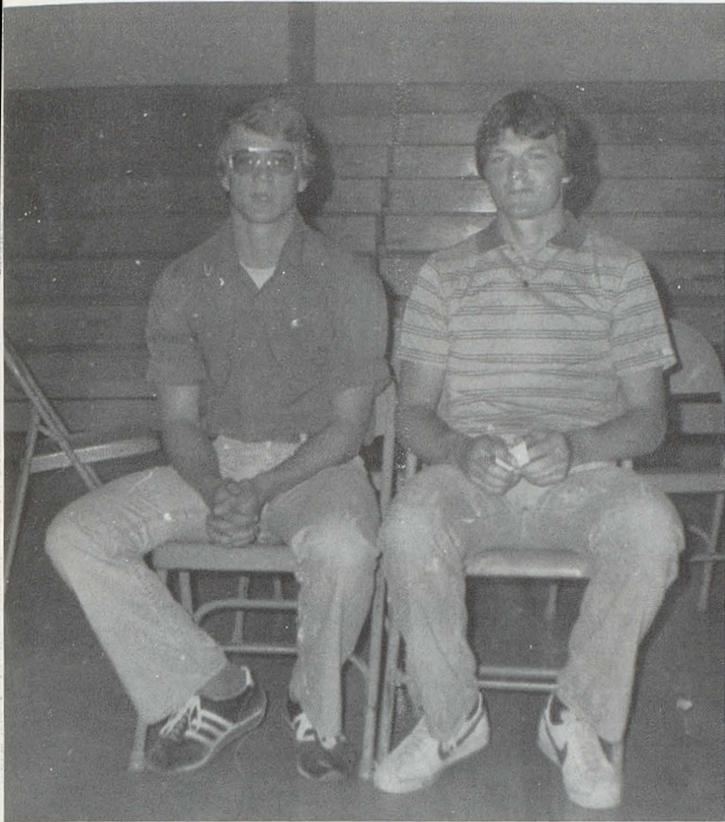

Digging and spiking their way through the season, the girls' volleyball team was led by a new coach, Amy Decker. "The girls showed great enthusiasm and spirit as their inexperienced team fought their way through the season," commented Coach Decker.

The team consisted of two seniors, Debbie Masters and Geri Fenley; three juniors, Brenda Boeh, Mary Middleton and Connie Johnson; four sophomores, Tammy Clary, Lori Masters, Laurie Klaus, and Laralee Sandy; and one freshman, Lisa Johnson.

Awards Given

Instead of an awards banquet, the T-Club decided to have an informal pot-luck dinner. The awards were given out directly after the supper since there was no speaker.

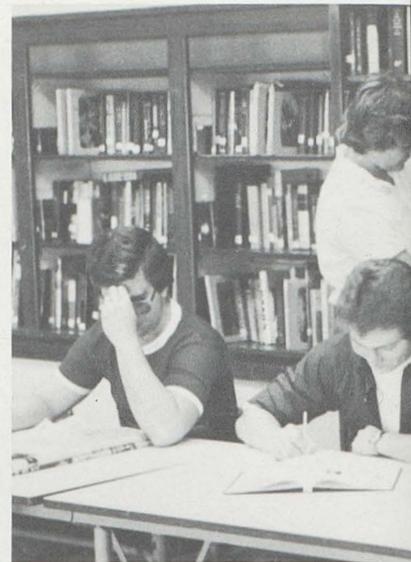

Coach Kelley announced four special awards for basketball. The award for most valuable player was presented to James Marriott, a senior. He also received the award for rebounding for the season. Kenny Neumann, a sophomore, received an award for his shooting percentage. The award for the best free throw percentage was awarded to John Michael Marriott.

The last two awards were given to two seniors, James Marriott and Tim Franken. The Tom Keller Award was given to Tim Franken for the most tackles during the season. This is the second time he has won the award. The last award went to the Outstanding Senior Athlete for his all-around athletic ability, James Marriott.

One may have his fondest dream come true, but he will not be happy unless he has one more thing: someone he cares about to share his dream. The groups at THS provided opportunities for many students to form lasting friendships.

While these friendships were being formed, students were being honored for past achievements and prepared for future challenges, community services were being performed, and various projects were being tackled.

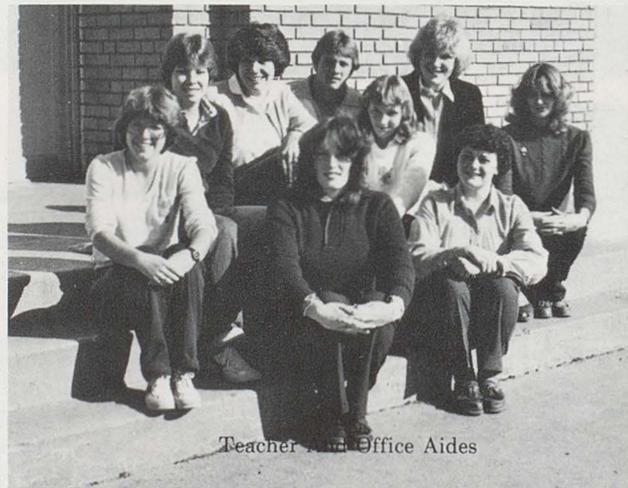

Library Aides

Aides Enjoy Helping

Students enjoyed helping teachers in their daily routines. The librarian was assisted by nine students. This year three sophomores were allowed into the aid program. In past years, only juniors and seniors helped out. The grade school teachers were assisted by seven seniors. Michelle Foley and Julia Simpson were office aids.

Rainbow Connection Theme for Kayettes

The theme for the 1981-82 school year was the Rainbow Connection. The whole year centered around ideas derived from this.

The Kayette board consists of nine members, each serving the school or community in her own special way. The president for 1981-82, Debbie Masters, conducted monthly meetings in the homes of board members. If the president were unable to attend a meeting, the vice-president for 1981-82, Kim Jamvold, stepped in to take the position of authority.

The Installation Banquet for the new officers was held April 26. Highway patrolman Roy Roper was the featured speaker.

Publications Class Wins At State

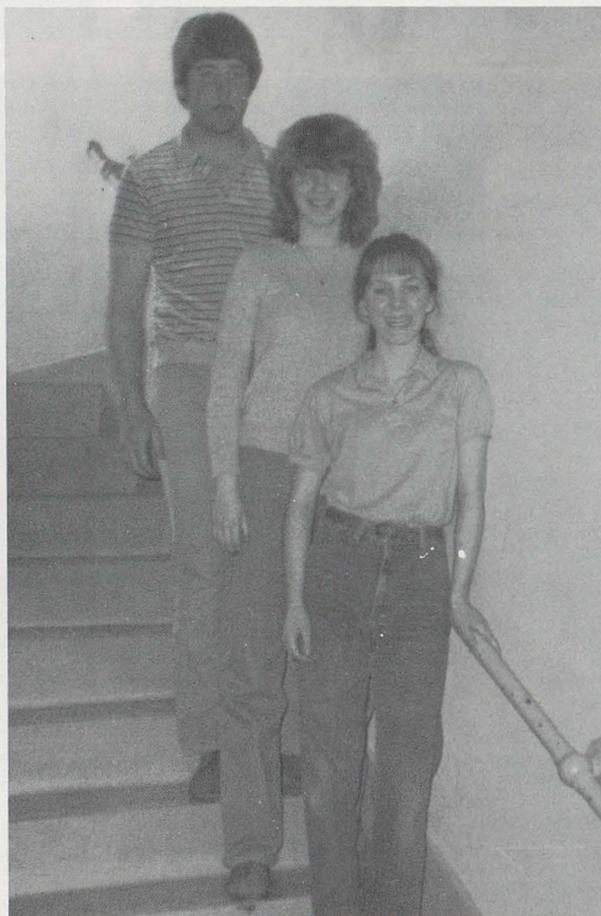

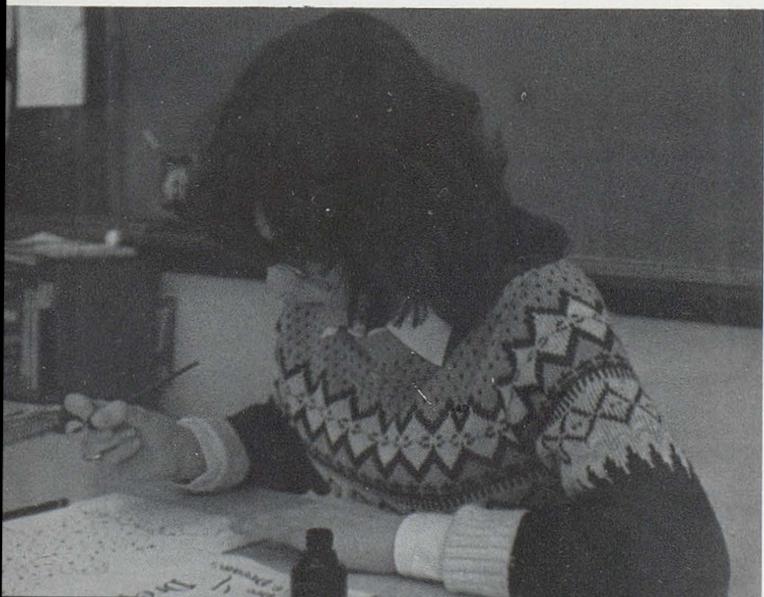

The journalism students attended the regional journalism contest at Lawrence, February 19. Ten students qualified for the state contest April 3, also at Lawrence. The team received first place in the 1A-2A-3A division, and brought back the traveling sweepstakes trophy.

Four individuals, Bev Meng, Connie Johnson, Bryan Gaither, and Steve Tharman, attended a communications day at Missouri Western State College, April 1. The school newspaper, The Trojan Trumpet, and the school yearbook, the Trojan, received second-division ratings in the evaluation program.

Money-making projects for the cheerleaders were bake sales. The pep club also made money with a bake sale.

Groups Earn Money

The high school and junior high football teams sold caps in order to raise money for a weight machine. Since the weight machine was to be used by most of the athletic groups, the money made was put into the T-Club fund. The young men made $561.49, selling five different styles of caps, the most popular one being the triple-striped Trojan cap.

The only major money-raising project that the FCA group had was cutting and selling wood. The group made around $300 with this project. The money they made was used to purchase national memberships and send the members to regional and national conferences.

Students Honored

Quill and Scroll is an organization that consists of superior journalism students who are juniors or seniors and have shown active interest in preparing the monthly TROJAN TRUMPET and the annual TROJAN.

National Honor Society is a group of juniors and seniors that have to have several qualifications. First of all, they must have a B average or better. They also must have leadership abilities, and participate in some school-related activities.

FFA Receives District Honors

Two of the greatest honors that the chapter received were having Kenneth Tharman elected Northeast District Secretary at the district banquet and winning three district proficiency awards.

The Chapter also participated in seven district contests and one state contest, and attended the state and national conventions.

The members had three entertaining events. They built a float and participated in the Halloween parade, had a hayrack ride sponsored by Carl Tharman, and had a sleigh ride party sponsored by John Neumann.

Kenny Neumann placed third and received a medal at the poultry judging contest at Holton.

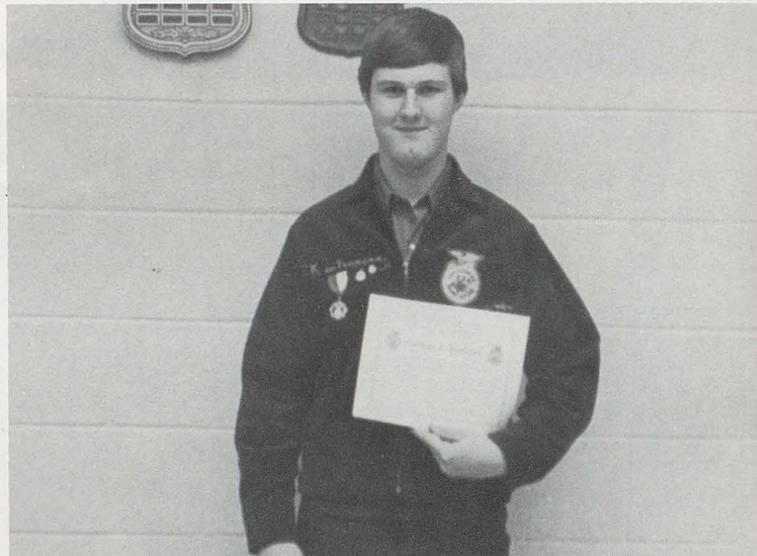

The annual parent-member banquet was May 14. The guest speaker was Ron Wineinger, the State FFA President.

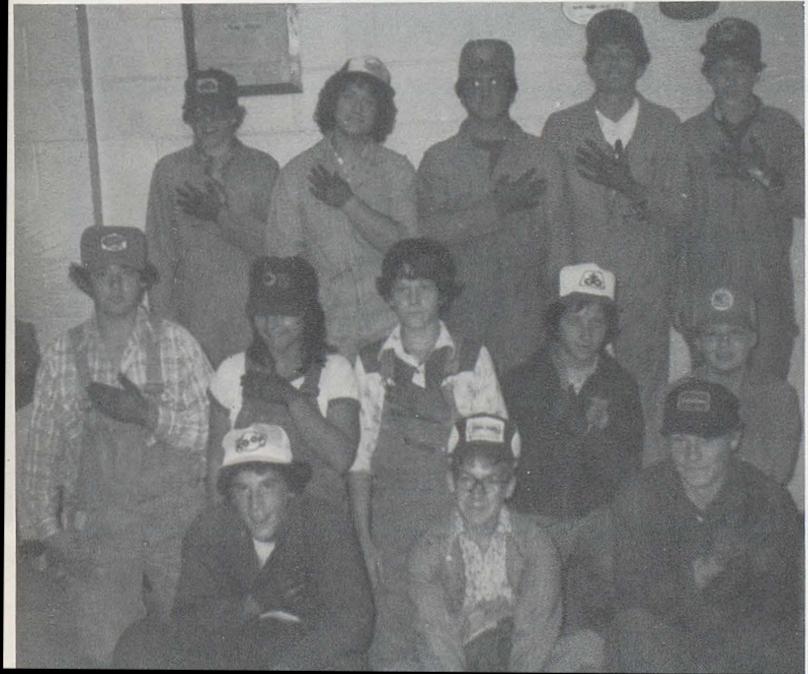

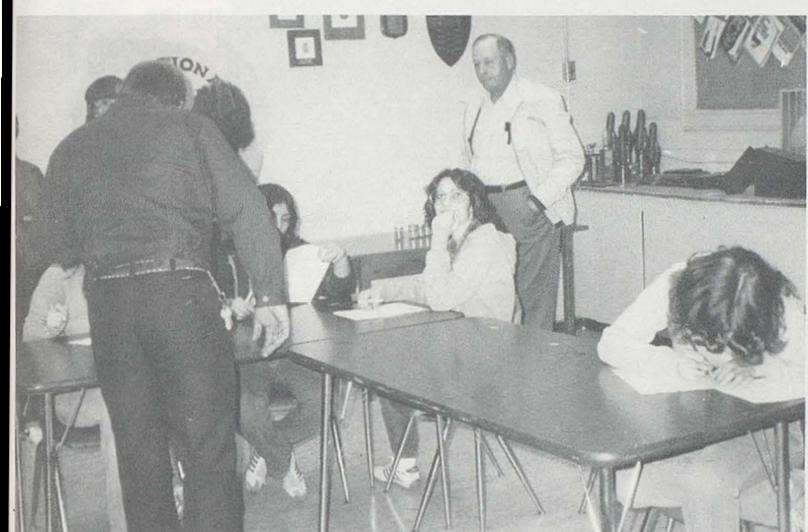

For the first time in over two years the department had girls enrolled, Debbie Lara, Becky Owens, Laurie Smith, and Lisa Anderson.
